RUSSIAN EXPERTS QUIT CHINA 'BY TRAINLOAD'

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet technicians and advisers were reported today to be leaving Communist China "by the trainload" apparently as the result of worsening relations between Moscow and Peking.

The reports came from Yugoslav correspondents in the Red Chinese capital and obviously passed strict censorship. French sources said they had received similar reports.

PRISON BUILDINGS SET ABLAZE

Smoke rises from burning gymnasium at Stoney Mountain Penitentiary near Winnipeg at height of

Convict Killed When Rioters Storm Manitoba Penitentiary

Seven Hurt in Uprising; 'Goofballs' Involved?

WINNIPEG (CP) — A prisoner at Stoney Mountain penitentiary was shot and killed Sunday afternoon as prison guards quelled an uprising by fire-setting prisoners.

Twelve convicts rushed the dome, nerve centre of the prison 14 miles north of downtown Winnipeg, and started fires in a cell block and other buildings.

The dead prisoner was identified as Albert Mercier, about 35. He was believed to be from Western Canada and serving a three-year term.

Four other prisoners were wounded by gunshots. They were taken to Winnipeg General Hospital where they were reported to be not in serious condition. Three unarmed guards were beaten in the disturbance, but were released from hospital after emergency treatment.

Mercier was reported to have been killed by a bullet that ricocheted from a wall.

Warden Charles Des Rosiers said he did not know what caused the outbreak of violence.

"They told us some of the officers sent out from Winnipeg got plenty high on these goofballs," Johnson said in an interview. "They reported that when two guards went to quiet them down they started fighting with the guards."

The flames destroyed the small, brick sports equipment storage building and the large brick gymnasium and recreation building.

Smoke was visible in downtown Winnipeg and fire equipment was called from the city.

Warden Des Rosiers said the other prisoners—about 400 in the penitentiary—did not take part in the disturbance. They stayed in the yard, supervised by guards and RCMP.

CAIRO (Reuters) — A United Arab Republic paratroop battalion of about 500 Egyptians and Syrians will leave for United Nations service in the Congo Tuesday, it was reported today.

Forests Open

The forest closure was lifted this afternoon on all sections of the province with the exception of the southern Peace River district.

Rain on Sunday eased the fire hazard to make the opening of the woods possible, a forest service announcement said.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Police said today the mother of the "sleeping beauty" sisters gave the little girls drugs as part of a "guilt complex" to cover up her secret love affair.

Mrs. Lillian Fratantonio, 29, told her husband details of her infidelity, then called in police to confess she gave the drugs which put the girls in a coma.

'SOMETHING TO HIDE' IN PREPARING TRIAL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States charged today that the reason Russia has refused to allow U.S. diplomats to interview U-2 pilot Francis G. Powers is because the Reds have "something to conceal" involving preparation of his trial.

The State Department said Secretary of State Christian A. Herter made this charge in a letter to Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko last week.

The letter was handed to Gromyko Friday by U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow Friday.

Powers Lawyer 'To Do Utmost'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Mikhail Grinev, the court-appointed Soviet lawyer for American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, said today "I will do my utmost to fight for Powers' life" in his spy trial opening Wednesday.

The elderly, bearded Moscow attorney made the statement at his first meeting with Oliver Powers, father of the 30-year-old American flier whose plane was downed over Sverdlovsk May 1 while on a reconnaissance flight over the Soviet Union.

After meeting Powers father and mother, the fatherly-looking Grinev went into conference with Powers wife, Barbara, 24.

SEVERAL HOURS

Grinev told Virginia attorney Alexander Parker, who came here with Barbara Powers to assist the family when the pilot goes on trial, that he had spent several hours this morning with the accused man.

The senior Powers asked Grinev how he could arrange a "father-to-father" meeting with Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The Soviet attorney said Powers should apply through the usual channels and he would get a reply.

Powers' wife and his parents were keeping apart in their dealings with Soviet officials and Grinev, giving rise to rumors of a rift. There were signs of coolness between them.

Mrs. Powers was accompanied by her own attorney when she talked with Grinev.

Americans and other westerners in the Soviet capital also were upset at report of arrangements by each side to sell the stories of their Soviet experiences to western publications.

Lumumba asked Hammarskjold to delay his departure for 24 hours so that a Congolese delegation could accompany him.

Rioting in Katanga Ignored by UN Troops

ELISABETHVILLE, Congo (AP) — Police used tear gas today to break up street demonstrations against Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe.

United Nations troops, pledged to political neutrality, looked the other way.

The Swedish UN troops were out on their first day of patrol in Elisabethville after taking over guard duties from Belgian soldiers who had lent support to Tshombe's demands for independence from Premier Patrice Lumumba's central government in Leopoldville.

Following the arrival of UN troops last weekend, Tshombe's police began moving around the city, throwing tear gas bombs whenever large groups refused to disperse. Members of the opposition Cartel party were arrested but later released after paying a fine equivalent to $1.

This morning a large crowd of young Africans gathered in Elisabethville's main square, the Place de l'Étoile, in front of the post office.

Jeeploads of police rode up and began throwing tear gas bombs. An armored car rolled into the square.

Swedish UN troops continued marching on their guard posts, looking off in the distance.

Tshombe's government reported that five Africans were killed Saturday and five injured in a clash with police in the city of Jadotville, northwest of Elisabethville. The government blamed the trouble

4 Believed Dead In Avalanche

VANCOUVER (CP) — An air search for traces of four Vancouver mountain climbers believed crushed to death in a giant avalanche on towering Mount Waddington was called off temporarily today.

Members of the B.C. Mountain Rescue Group were to fly over the area but the trip had been put off because the scene after being isolated while waiting for a scheduled RCMP plane they were to use was in need of servicing.

The loss of the four climbers was the worst mountain-climbing accident in B.C. history and is believed to have happened more than two weeks ago as the party sought to scale Waddington, known as a "killer mountain."

Elfrida Pigou, 38, was one of two women who joined a pair of men for the assault on the 13,260-foot peak 175 miles northwest of here. Thousands of tons of ice dropped from an overhanging cliff and crushed them.

The accident probably happened July 30, but word of it was not received until Saturday.

They apparently never got higher than 8,200 feet.

Packing Supplies Below Ice Cliff

Frank Fickelsen of Seattle, head of the American party, said they saw the Vancouver climbers packing supplies on to a flat place on a glacier beneath an ice cliff July 30.

When the Americans climbed to the spot two days later, they found an ice slide some 150 yards wide and up to 10 feet deep. Buried in it were the remnants of the Canadians' camp site.

Their tracks led to the slide. The Americans, who had followed the prints through soft snow, made the sickening discovery that no tracks led out again.

"I feel sure they were all killed at once," Fickelsen said. "On Monday (Aug. 1) we came to a very steep glacial area and what appeared to be a campsite on a flat area covered with fresh debris," he said.

'YOU'LL NEVER KNOW WHY'

Mountain's Victim Had to Try Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Owen never expected people to understand what it was that made him go back to climb British Columbia's "killer mountain" a second time.

"You can't understand what it's like on top unless you've been there," he told friends.

That was shortly before he left his home here last month to scale Mount Waddington, 175 miles northwest of Vancouver. He died with his three companions July 30 when they were buried by an avalanche at the 8,200-foot level of the 13,260-foot peak.

He said a veteran Alpine climber who scaled the peak described it as the most difficult mountain of its size in the world to climb.

He planned a color photographic record of the latest ascent.

John's mother, Mrs. Francis Owen, was opposed to the climb.

"He did it once and I felt he should leave it alone," she said. "He loved mountains but he never thought of the risk if he had come back he would be out again climbing some other mountain."

UNITED NATIONS troops from Sweden marched in their first patrols today in Elisabethville, capital of unsettled Katanga province in the Congo, after Belgian army units handed over control. MIDNIGHT SIGHTING TIME ESTIMATED FOR 'SATELLOON'

The 10-storey-high U.S. balloon satellite "Echo" should be visible over Victoria just after midnight tonight and again at 2 a.m.

The satellite should be seen in a medium-southeasterly direction at 12.01 a.m. and at high south at 2 a.m., according to a timetable issued in Washington by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

It will be travelling from west to east.

It should have passed over Victoria around 12.24 a.m. and 2.27 a.m. today.

However, the satellite has not been seen as yet from the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Little Saanich Mountain.

"Some people phoned to say they had seen it around 10 p.m. Saturday," an official said. "They reported that it was travelling very low in the south-east. This seems in accord with official calculations."

If weather conditions are favorable, the observatory will attempt to photograph the "Echo" with its special "Sputnik" camera early Tuesday.

This is done by opening the shutter for about half a minute and then rotating the camera.

Russell Bompas, radio technician for the Department of National Defence at Esquimalt, reported seeing the huge aluminum-coated communications balloon soon after midnight Friday.

"I watched for it again on Saturday, Sunday and early today but without result," he said. "I shall keep at it."

SASKATOON — Sir Robert Williams, the baronet who dislikes his title, returned today from his estate in England and said he had fed up in my life."

"For a solid month I've been written up every time I turned around," said Sir Robert, a Canadian National Railways brakeman from Kamsack, Sask., who inherited the baronetcy of Tregullow in Devonshire six weeks ago.

"I've been misquoted more often than quoted. I'm damn sick of it."

Sir Robert, whose estate is estimated to be worth $500,000, said he plans to continue working in Saskatchewan until legal and tax problems are settled in England.

After inheriting the title and estate, the 36-year-old brakeman expressed the hope he could avoid being called a "sir."

BALLATER, Scotland — Princess Anne celebrated her 10th birthday today in her favorite way — with a picnic lunch on the beautiful moors around Balmoral Castle.

All the members of the Royal Family except the Queen Mother were present for the birthday celebrations.

Princess Anne's birthday presents were kept secret but she is known to have asked for several books on ballet. She became interested in ballet after seeing a performance by the Royal Ballet last May.

LUCCA, Italy — A second child has been born to Count Aubrey Tealdi and his wife, Princess Lidia Caraccioli, whose marriage five years ago caused a stir because he was 74 and she was 15. They had a daughter in 1957, and the latest addition is a boy.

DORION, Que. — Dr. Barbara Moore, the 56-year-old marathoner, reached this community 20 miles west of Montreal Sunday on the first stage of her hike to Toronto.

The hardy Briton expects to average 35 miles a day for the 350-mile trip and hopes to arrive in Toronto Aug. 24 for the opening of the Canadian National Exhibition.

BENTONVILLE, Ark. — Leonard Lovell summoned an ambulance to rush his expectant wife to the hospital but the baby was born before it got to the house.

Mrs. Lovell and the baby girl were taken to the hospital Lovell, after seeing them settled there, returned home. A few minutes later the telephone rang.

Jobless Plan Unveiled

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Liberal party has a 24-point plan to deal with unemployment in the province, provincial association president Frank Lewis said Saturday.

He said the plan had been launched by trade unions affiliated with the CCF as "the first to deal with unemployment we have seen presented by any party."

Sikhs Arrested

NEW DELHI, India (Reuters) — Police clashed with demonstrators Sikhs today as Prime Minister Nehru addressed an Independence Day rally here. Some 150 Sikhs were arrested.

Speaking to a nominating meeting, Mr. Lewis said the plan advocates:

A federal-provincial public works program to provide maximum employment during winter months; vocational training for the unemployed; a federal-provincial-municipal conference on unemployment; and a government study of the consequences of automation.

Speaking of construction of the Pacific Northern Railway from Prince George to the Yukon boundary, Mr. Lewis said he had received a telegram from a party member who had made a "personal inspection" of the PNR construction site at Summit Lake, near Prince George.

He said this is what was found at the site: one bull-dozen, four tents, a radio antenna and an outhouse.

"That's what they're building a railway with," he said.

CABINET HITCH

New Cyprus Independent Tonight

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — President-elect Archbishop Makarios ran into a hitch today in his attempt to complete the first cabinet for the new Cyprus republic, which comes into being at midnight tonight.

Nicos Kranidiotis, a former suspected member of the Greek-Cypriot EOKA underground organization, refused the post of foreign minister which he was offered Sunday night.

Kranidiotis, 48, once Makarios' chief secretary, now serving as his diplomatic representative in Greece, gave no reason for his decision.

Meanwhile the preparations went ahead for the inauguration Tuesday of the rest of the cabinet. It includes men who fought against British security forces in the bitter four-year emergency which cost nearly 700 lives, before Britain gave up its 82-year rule over the island.

Prospective minister of the interior Polycarpos Georgiadis, 29, was an EOKA fighter who escaped from British custody three times. He carried a price of £5,000 on his head at one time.

Independence festivities today were confined to the Turkish quarters of the island where preparations began for the traditional animal sacrifices. In the Greek quarters no excitement was apparent as the long-sought independence neared.

The ministry of justice announced the release of 106 Cypriot prisoners today to mark independence. The sentences of 83 prisoners — ranging from one month to several years — have also been remitted, the announcement said.

Sir Hugh Foot, the island's last British governor, Makarios and Fadi Kutchuk, the Turkish vice-president-elect, will take part in the midnight changeover ceremonies.

KEPT IN STAIRWELL, FATHER JAILED

'Funny Little Boy' Cooped Up by Parents

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — A father of four was in jail today charged with child neglect as police investigated the case of his four-year-old son who was found in a dark and dirty cubicle of his home.

Police said the father, Rudolph Escamilla, 29, told them his son, Anthony, had been in the cell-like stairwell for a month. But police said neighbors reported Escamilla, his wife, Paula, 27, and their three daughters had lived in the home for 18 months and they never knew the family had a son.

There were several cuts on his body and bumps on his head.

Police were puzzled by the parents' explanations.

"We ashamed, we ashamed," was all Mrs. Escamilla would say, indicating, police said, the boy was mentally retarded.

"He's my son," the father said.

"I love it. No one will understand our own problem."

Police broke into the make-shift five by 10-foot prison on Saturday night after neighbors reported they heard a child crying after the Escamilla family had left the apartment.

The boy, wearing only a T-shirt, was sitting on a pile of rags, which was his bed. Anthony was taken to a hospital. Authorities said there were questions in Spanish and English, but never asks for his parents.

"He's a funny little boy," one of the nurses in the children's ward at Silver Cross Hospital told a reporter. "He answers questions in Spanish and English, but never asks for his parents."

Escamilla said the boy used to bang his head against the wall and once struck himself on the head with a hammer.

Cuba Seizes Big U.S. Mine

HAVANA (AP)—The Cuban government has taken over the Freeport Sulphur Company's $75,000,000 nickel and cobalt plant in Cuba. The American-owned plant has been idle since March, when the government put a heavy export tax on its output.

Announcement Sunday of government intervention of Moa Bay Mining Company heightened fears in private business circles concerning the fate of about $75,000,000 worth of other American mining properties still under private management.

President Osvaldo Dorticos announced the intervention—which can mean anything from token supervision to outright control—but gave no reason. It was expected, however, the government eventually would say it had taken over the plant to protect workers' jobs, claiming the management had abandoned it.

WILL TAKE STEPS

In New York, the Freeport Company said it would take all possible steps under Cuban and international law to protect its legal rights.

Moa Bay is the largest privately-owned mining enterprise in Cuba. Started in 1957, it was not fully completed last March when officials of the company said they could not continue operations because of a new tax.

MOUNT WADDINGTON

permit, a group of rescuers will go to the scene later.

Miss Pigou's death on the side of B.C.'s third highest mountain marked the end of a remarkable devotion to climbing.

She was one of a group of B.C. climbers who came upon the wreckage of a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane on Mount Slesse, near Chilliwack, in 1958, five months after it crashed killing 62.

But outside the limelight of that discovery, she spent every spare moment climbing. A bespectacled woman weighing only 95 pounds, she had climbed more major peaks than any woman in Canada in recent years, including many first ascents of mountains over 10,000 feet high.

When the weather was too bad for mountains, she practised on the 40-foot sheer drop of nearby Point Atkinson. When she left for Mount Waddington, she had her hand heavily bandaged after a large boulder crushed it during one of these practice climbs.

Her companions in death were all experienced climbers. Despite his youth, Owen had several high peaks to his credit, as did Miss Stirling. Boddy spent several years in New Zealand, where he climbed in the Alps, before settling in B.C. a year ago.

ELFRIDA PIGOU
... veteran

Mount Waddington, first climbed in 1936, was long known as Mystery Mountain. It remained undiscovered through decades of colonization until a climber saw it from 175 miles away while on Forbidden Plateau on Vancouver Island in the 1920s.

Hidden behind a range of peaks, it was called Mystery Mountain until it was renamed to honor B.C. pioneer Alfred Waddington.

Trade Missions Swapped

GREENOCK, Scotland (UPI)—Canada and the Soviet Union will exchange trade missions this fall, Amasasp A. Aroutounian, the Soviet ambassador to Canada, announced today.

Aroutounian, en route to Russia for a two-month holiday, told a press conference aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of England, he hoped the exchange of visits by a Soviet trade delegation and a group of Canadian businessmen would take place in two months.

He was optimistic about future trade relations between the two countries.

"We are interested in machinery for the pulp and paper industry," he said, "but unfortunately trade with Canada is a very negligible item at the moment for we have not the traditions in our trading with Canada that we have with Great Britain or even with Scotland."

"Canada has a lot of ore resources to develop," he added, "and we hope to increase our trade with her."

Aroutounian said the exchange was a sequel to an agreement between Russia and Canada four months ago.

Hoffa Loses Libel Action

DETROIT (AP)—Teamster Union president James R. Hoffa's libel suit against Jack Paar and Robert F. Kennedy was dismissed today by U.S. district court.

Hoffa brought a suit for $2,500,000 against the three a few months ago, alleging libel and defamation of his character on one of Paar's television shows.

The dismissals for Paar and Kennedy, former counsel for the Senate rackets committee, were granted on a technicality—mis-service of the papers.

NBC, in its motion to quash, said it also was wrongfully served.

KING YIELDS

Laos Gets Neutralist Government

VIENTIANNE, Laos (AP)—King Savang Vatthana has agreed to the demands of the military rebels in Laos and named one of the nation's leading neutralists as premier, the rebel command announced today.

Vientianne Radio said the king had accepted the resignation of pro-Western Premier Thao Somsanith and his cabinet and asked Prince Souvanna Phouma, president of the National Assembly and the rebels' nominee for premier, to form a new government.

The rebel leader, 35-year-old Capt. Kong Le, said rebel negotiators in the royal seat of Luang Prabang, 120 miles north of Vientiane, had cabled him news of the king's action.

NEUTRAL POLICY

Kong Le and his forces have dedicated Souvanna Phouma's government to neutrality, expulsion of the U.S. and French military advisers who have been training the 30,000-man royal army, acceptance of aid from any country that will give it without strings, an end to the war against the pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas and a cleanup of government corruption.

The king's designation of Souvanna Phouma promised to avert the threat of civil war, since government forces had already begun to organize for a drive on Vientiane, the country's administrative capital and the only city taken by Kong Le and about 1,000 troops in a lightning coup last Tuesday.

The crew, except for the 12 who were jailed, backed down. "The ones that stuck to their guns were told to pack their belongings and get off the ship," Powers said.

Canadian Pacific Railway police met the men as they left the Beaverville and arrested them.

A Lesson in Absurdity

AT THE END OF THE RECENT parliamentary session in Ottawa Messrs. Peters and Howard, of the CCF, wisely lifted their two-man blockade against divorce bills approved by the Senate. Adopting the judgment of a Senate committee, the Commons rushed through, without serious consideration, an accumulation of some 450 divorces sought by residents of Quebec and Newfoundland, which have no divorce courts.

The Peters-Howard filibuster was a remarkable and humiliating feat of parliamentary obstruction, it made a mockery of our existing divorce laws but for that very reason it may have done much good. Probably for the first time the Canadian people fully realize now the absurdity of our divorce laws, which are constantly evaded by collusion and legal tricks.

The first objective of the filibuster was to demonstrate the need, in the case of Quebec and Newfoundland litigants, of some better divorce procedure than costly private bills submitted to the Senate, examined by its divorce committee, and then rubber-stamped, without study, by the Commons.

Of course the best solution would be the establishment of divorce courts in Quebec and Newfoundland like those in the other provinces but that solution is unlikely. For their own reasons Quebec and Newfoundland are officially opposed to divorce under any circumstances and force their citizens to seek it from the federal authority.

Messrs. Peters and Howard proposed, therefore, that the present arrangements be repealed by turning Quebec and Newfoundland divorce cases over to the Exchequer Court, or to a new national divorce court. Parliament would thus be freed from a judicial task entirely outside its competence.

But any such reform of procedure, affecting two provinces, would not touch the broader problems of divorce in all provinces. So long as adultery is the only legal ground for divorce, evasion of the law, collusion, cooked evidence, professional co-respondents and the other apparatus of a lucrative industry will continue to flourish.

All these evils were clearly exposed by Messrs. Peters and Howard, at the expense of using a lot of time in Parliament but the time was not wasted if it convinced Parliament and nation that the existing system is a sham, a masterpiece of hypocrisy, a caricature of the judicial process.

If the existing law, with its single ground of divorce, actually discouraged the dissolution of marriages it could be defended, for all its many injustices, as a safeguard of society. But it does not prevent divorces. It merely makes them expensive and often collusive. Or else it denies divorce on grounds long ago accepted in other Western nations like Britain for example — such grounds as intolerable cruelty, desertion, incurable insanity and venereal disease.

Parliament has been taught, or should have been taught, a strong lesson in the absurdity and injustice of our present law, thanks to a crude but effective filibuster. Like so many other important things, the issue thus posed was left unsolved as an exhausted Parliament finally went home. When it meets again most Canadians will hope that it will deal with this festering social sore not by encouraging divorce but by making it honest, above-board and judicial.

No Parks Policy Change

IT IS REASSURING TO HEAR from Mr. Earle Westwood, minister of recreation, that no change is being made in parks policy and that provision of camping and picnic sites, available at no charge to the public, is continuing.

Earlier remarks by the premier at Salt Spring had created misgivings on that score.

Provincial parks are, and have been for years, one of the great recreational assets of this province. Season after season they are being used to a greater extent by our own citizens and visitors. At present many of the more popular ones are subjected to such heavy traffic that extension and creation of new areas are essential.

These are the parks the people of British Columbia pay for. They are also the amenities used 77.7 per cent by provincial residents, 9.5 per cent by other Canadians and 12.8 per cent by United States visitors last year.

As a service to our own residents — who pay taxes — they are completely justified as a public charge. As an attraction to visitors they constitute one of the finest tourist magnets we could provide.

Since the camping vogue is growing stronger as more and more families take to this form of healthful vacationing, the emphasis should be on expanded service, not on restriction.

Safety for the Asking

A RESURGENCE OF POLIO cases in British Columbia this year should carry its lesson to the public.

If mankind were without a means of combating this dread illness there would be a cry to the medical authorities to find a preventive measure. This has already been provided in the Salk vaccine, but the complaint today is that the public is slow to take advantage of the aid that is available. Freedom from polio is at hand — and many will not accept it.

Of 95 polio patients in the province at this time, only 26 had received the course of three anti-polio injections. The immunity is not 100 per cent, but when the dread effects of polio are considered, even a three out of four chance of avoiding it, and at no charge for the service, seems to be a pretty obvious choice.

Next Wednesday, from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m., medical authorities here will conduct a drive to vaccinate as many Greater Victorians as possible, with open clinics in both St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee hospital. Especially invited are those who have never had an anti-polio vaccination, and those who require another booster shot to ensure the success of their protection.

How can anyone ignore the offer, or refuse it to those who depend on them?

Can't Talk for Laughing

VICTORIA COLLEGE ENGLISH professors appear to have provided the correct reaction to Dr. Gordon Bates' attack on novelists Hugh MacLennan and Morley Callaghan and on other university colleagues. They laughed.

Dr. Bates, director of the Health League of Canada, criticized the two distinguished Canadian men of letters for defending "Lady Chatterley's Lover" in a Montreal court case. The influence of some English professors — and psychiatrists on the staffs of universities — on their students, he added, is one of the main causes of increasing adultery.

The English professors at Victoria College choked on their chuckles.

With one point made by Dr. Bates, however, most thoughtful people will agree. He says Morley Callaghan and Hugh MacLennan "should have their heads read." Of course. And by him. Reading can be broadening, informative and vastly effective as a medium of self-improvement.

Price of Respect

AN INTERESTING CONCEPT of morality is furnished by a television show producer's defense of the personally intrusive nature of his popular program.

The critics have been hard on the show. The producer defends it in part by saying it has endowed an educational foundation, been instrumental in building a hospital, helped to raise a large sum for Hungary's relief and provided assistance to other shows it considers worthwhile on TV.

The producer thinks his production "should command respect for those accomplishments."

Certainly the philanthropy should command respect. That does not necessarily extend respect to the agency. A white slaver, a boot-legger or a narcotics peddler may possibly make gifts to worthy causes. The contributions do not, however, raise the status of the vocation of the donor. Some things money just cannot buy.

Once there were two countries that always nearly fought with each other. But never quite. Well, one time the leader of one of the countries made a terrible mistake.

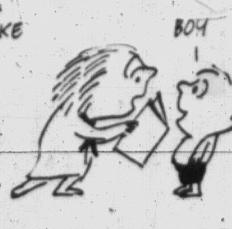

But because of the danger of the times and in the interest of national unity his countrymen pooh-poohed it and made him a national hero.

Then the leader of the other country made a terrible mistake. But because of the danger of the times and in the interest of national unity his countrymen pooh-poohed it and made him a national hero.

So the two leaders realized that the only time their countrymen were solid behind them was when they made a terrible mistake. So whenever things got rough at home, they embarked on a terrible mistake policy.

I love happy endings.

FIRST ONE LEADER WOULD MISTAKENLY INSULT THE OTHER LEADER AND THAT WOULD UNIFY HIS COUNTRY.

AND THEN THE OTHER LEADER WOULD MISTAKENLY VISIT COUNTRIES THAT WERE CERTAIN TO RIOT AGAINST HIM AND THAT WOULD UNIFY HIS COUNTRY.

BOY
AND THE MORE UNIFIED THE COUNTRIES WERE THE LESS DEBATE THERE WAS OVER POLICY. NOW IS NO TIME TO CAST BLAME, THEIR PEOPLES SAID. SO TERRIBLE MISTAKES BEGAN TO BE SCHEDULED AHEAD OF DISARMAMENT CONFERENCES - ECONOMIC SLUMPS - RISKY ELECTIONS -

UP ON THE THIN EDGE

Perhaps in Space We Can Get the Necessary Over-All View

TWENTY five miles up. That's pretty high compared with previous man-made flights. It's not much compared with the distance yet to go. And it isn't very impressive compared with the bulk of the earth. On a globe 8,000 miles through, a 25-mile flight straight out is hardly noticeable. But it's a good start. It's high enough to see where you've been. And it might even be high enough to see where you're going.

Some time ago an American balloonist rode into the upper atmosphere and came down almost incoherent in trying to describe the beauties he had seen. Last week's high-flying pilot was "almost poetical" in telling of the view once you get away from the dimming blanket of the earth's atmosphere.

Both men were particularly impressed by the deep purplish blue of space, a sight which most of us will have to imagine for the rest of our lives although a later generation may become familiar with it.

The stars shine more brightly, the earth blooms with a more globe-like appearance and there must be a decided feeling of getting away from it all.

For ages man has gone into the mountain tops to pray, to meditate, to try to detach himself from the mass of humanity in order to get a more objective view. But the mountain tops are only a makeshift approach to detachment; these high flights are the real thing.

From 25 miles up the observer must get a wholly different feeling toward the earth and all that therein is. From his god-like vantage point he must achieve a new wisdom regarding the affairs of the insignificant crawlers far below him.

What would happen, for instance, if the Summit meeting could be taken off the summit and placed aboard a plane 25 miles up? Would the world's problems diminish in importance as the world's topography dwindled?

Would frontiers and ideologies lose their frenetic appeal? Would divisions and disputes seem less vital from out in space as it became more and more obvious that the tiny globe with its human cargo is a unit in a vast void, and should act in unity?

Perhaps the answers to earth's pressing problems will eventually be found in space — or the questions that demand them will disappear.

From 25 miles up, Indian and Chinese representatives might feel rather foolish wrangling over the ownership of a few miles of jungle along their common border. From 250 or 2,500 miles up they might forget what the quarrel was about.

If Communist bosses could see visually what an infinitesimal part of the universe the earth is, would they still feel it was important to try to dominate the globe and blanket it with one form of social theory?

Or might they feel a faint suspicion that life could hold more important and pleasurable objectives than grabbing territory, minds and power?

Would tariff walls between countries seem important as the earth dwindled to a dot in space? Would differences in skin, color, in religious belief, in ancestry, in a score of other things which we down here on the earth's surface hold to be important, continue to be so engrossing if we could see the globe for what it really is: a speck of dust in an infinity of time and space?

Space and the breadth of view it will give us may yet prove to be our salvation. It may be tough while the period of adjustment lasts. We'll have to admit a lot of things that will hurt our pride and our prestige and our sense of importance, but having swallowed those truths we can set out on the right road at last.

We'll have had to get our heads above the clouds in order to get our feet solidly on the earth — and that's quite a stretch.

NO ENDINGS WITHOUT BEGINNINGS

Thoughts as One Surveys the Perilous World of Today

"If thou be a guest at the table of one greater than thyself, take what he gives thee... Cast thy gaze down till he addresses thee, and speak only when speech is called for, and laugh when he laughs, and it will be pleasing to his heart."

Such is the wisdom of Ptah-hotep, who lived in the dawn time of civilization, in the hopeful era of the Egyptian Old Kingdom. What with Cuba, the Congo, and Congress, a day from the present seems to be in order; and on such a holiday, Ptah-hotep is an instructive companion. He is, at least, wonderfully unashamedly himself, with no boring false pretenses.

"Bow to thy superior," he admonishes: "(then) thy house and thy property will endure, thy reward will be what it should be... If thou art a man of standing, found a family, and love thy wife at home as is fitting. Give her plenty to eat, clothe her back; ointment is the prescription for her body..."

In truth this man who lived before they built the great pyramid, is halfway between Uriah Heep and Samuel Smiles, with an added touch of the modern marriage counsellor. He is "umble."

In a sacred bureaucracy that serves a deified tyrant, such as exists in China today, the wise go-getter must learn how to deal with inferiors as well as superiors. Of this problem, Ptah-hotep says:

"If anyone makes petition to thee... do not put him off before he has said what he has come to say. A petitioner wants attention to be paid to what he says, even more than to be granted what he asks."

In the Egyptian dawn-time, apparently, one could be perfectly materialist, splendidly confident of the value of the present, happily sure of the prosperity of the future, and careless of all things but comfort and success.

But hear the Man Who Was Tired of Life, another scribe-bureaucrat like Ptah-hotep, who probably wrote towards the end of the long and bitter time of troubles between the Old Kingdom's fall and the Middle Kingdom's renewing rise.

"To whom can I speak today?" cries out this ancient Egyptian. "One's fellows are evil... Hearts are grasping, every man seizes his fellow's goods... To whom can I speak today? The sin which stalks the earth has no end!"

strict Sunday keepers could be confronted with the same question.

We often hear about time being lost or gained by travellers. Actually this expression is unscientific and indicates something that is only apparent not real. Suppose Victoria twins were to leave here in opposite directions for a trip round the world and suppose it was actually true that one would lose a day and the other gain a day, then there would be two days difference in their ages when they arrived back home in Victoria.

An extract of an article on the date line states: "The revolutions of the earth itself, as measured by fixed localities, are not measures and numbers the days, not the revolutions that may be ed as part of the natural order; and good Amenemopet so kindly and yet so resigned, so much the good man in an accepted downward cycle, in fact.

I made these new acquaintances in a study of the culture patterns of civilization's first era, "The Face of the Ancient Orient," by the Italian scholar, Sabatino Moscati. It is a remarkable work.

Egypt and Sumer, Babylon and Assyria, the great Empire of the Hittites and the rich land of Mitanni, and lesser human societies like Mari and Ugarit, Israel and Judah, take form, put on their ornaments, and crumble and collapse in these few hundred pages.

Each lives for a while. Each dies in the end. And by no means all of them leave much behind, beyond shards and ruins and a few such dim yet magical scratches as decorate the walls of the place of power of the Hittite Kings, secret Yazilikaya upon the mountain-crests.

Flux and impermanence are the lessons. Or are they really the lessons? For how can there be endings without beginnings, final decay without initial energy and vigor?

These, at any rate, are interesting questions to think about, as one surveys the perilous world of Nikita S. Khrushchev and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Reviving Sommers Issue

It is most unfortunate that the ex-leader of the Opposition, CCF candidate Robert Strachan, has opened his campaign with remarks which include Mr. Robert Sommers, the former minister of lands and forests.

In the name of justice and common decency, politicians and the press should cease the continuous persecution of Mr. Sommers, and indirectly, his family.

Shortness of Breath

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mess. Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation
Many people write, wanting to know why they are short of breath. It bothers them to hurry or to walk upstairs. A few get so bad that even getting dressed in the morning makes them puff. It is well to remember that when one gets short of breath it is likely to mean that the aeration of the blood is not adequate.

Obviously, this could be due to a defect in the heart, which normally pumps the blood through the lungs and then through the body. Or, the trouble is due to a marked thinning of the blood with a loss of the all-essential hemoglobin (red coloring matter) which carries the oxygen from the lungs to the cells in the body's tissues.

Hence it is that when an aging man finds he has trouble walking up a ramp, his doctor must check his heart to see if it is working efficiently, or if its valves are all right, or if its blood supply is adequate.

In many cases, the heart is failing a bit because of overwork. The man has a high blood pressure, and hence his heart has for long been pumping all day against an abnormally high "head" of pressure. Finally, it got tired.

In other cases the doctor finds that for much of the man's lifetime his heart has been handicapped by a leaky valve. Now the heart muscle is getting tired. Or, perhaps the man was all right until a little artery in his heart muscle plugged up. Now the muscle is handicapped because it is not getting enough blood.

In other cases, the doctor gets a hunch the minute he sees the man's "barrel-chest," and perhaps his spade-like finger tips (indicating chronic lung disease); and perhaps he hears some wheezing sounds that are typical of asthma.

A little examination and he may find a good deal of emphysema. By this is meant a dilation or rupture or loss of elasticity in the tiny air sacs of the lungs. With this, the aeration of the lungs becomes defective. Perhaps the doctor will notice the bluish color of the man's lips and finger nails, and the anxious look on his face that comes when a man has to fight for each breath that he takes.

The doctor may note a marked contraction of the two muscles on each side of the neck which raise the top of the chest wall so that more air can come in to the lungs. Often he will note, also, that the man has handicapped his breathing apparatus by tetting much fat form in his abdomen, or by smoking one cigarette after another.

In all cases the doctor will get an X-ray examination made of the man's lungs, because occasionally this will show something decidedly wrong, like the collapse of a lobe, or the growth of a lung tumor, or the presence of a huge diaphragmatic rupture with much of the man's bowel up in the left side of his chest.

Perhaps, if for years the man was a miner who had to cut through granite, his lungs will be found full of the fine granite dust and this will cause trouble.

Always, of course, the man's blood will be checked to make sure that it is adequate to carry the oxygen around through his body.

This morning I got several letters from people who wanted me to tell them what to do for "shortness of breath." I hope they read this column because then they will see why it would have been foolish for me to have tried to guess just which one of all the several possible diseases they had.

The only time I was ever short of breath was when a certain "Cocksackie" virus caught me. First, it gave me an awful headache; then, it produced pleurisy; and finally, it appeared for a few weeks to injure my heart muscle. Fortunately I recovered.

Men with a cancerous prostate gland want to know if they will have any bad effects if the doctor inserts into the gland tiny pellets of radioactive gold.

I doubt if they need fear any trouble. Not being an expert in this field, I cannot discuss all the pros and cons. All I know is that I have read many papers by urologists and others who used this technique and felt that it is a good one.

Commonly, it is about the only treatment that can be used because, by the time a man discovers he has a cancer of the prostate gland, it has scattered, and hence an attempt to remove all of the gland would do no good.

Sometimes in these cases the urologist can enable the man to urinate by removing much of the larger gland through a lighted tube passed down through the urethra—the tube that carries urine from the bladder to the outside.

Often, when cancer of the prostate gland has scattered into the nearby nerves and the bones, the patient will be helped by being given large doses of female hormone.

Menfolk Sniff in Appreciation

The cooking herbs which and mint, and the experimenters have tried a sprig of rosemary and a leaf of the scented geranium. Even the men sniff with appreciation, if this is accompanied by their favorite buns or cookies!

SOME RULES

The rules for cutting herbs for drying are about the same as for cutting lavender. The fragrant oils are at their highest peak as the first flowers open. Noon on a sunny day is the ideal time for cutting for maximum fragrance and flavor.

Stems are cut as for a small bouquet, and each kind is usually kept separate. According to the space available for drying, the stems of leaves and flower buds are either laid out on trays, tied in bunches and hung from nails in the rafters, or put into perforated paper bags and hung.

Warm, dry air is needed for drying quickly, but direct sunlight will dissipate the oils and leave a poor quality.

Sage takes as long as a week to dry, but the other herbs are usually faster. The leaves will then separate readily from the stems and may be stored in small glass jars in a dark place.

More flavor is retained if the dried pieces are not finely powdered for storing. The final powdering can easily be done with thumb and finger when adding the pinch which may be stored in small glass jars in a dark place.

'JUSTIFIED IN ATTACK'

Southern Baptists To Oppose Kennedy

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Dr. Ramsey Pollard, president of the 9,000,000-member Baptist Convention, predicted today that an "overwhelming majority" of Baptist preachers in the southern United States will ask their congregations to oppose Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem.-Mass.) for president in the November U.S.

B. D. Goodpasture, editor of the Church of Christ publication, Gospel Advocate, said ministers of his church not only will use their pulpits but any other forum they can get in an effort to defeat Kennedy, a Roman Catholic.

Pollard told the newspaper Tennessee of Scottsboro, Ala., where he was visiting:

"Since the Roman Catholic Church is not only a church but a political entity, we feel we are justified in making an attack upon Mr. Kennedy on that basis."

If Baptists and Protestant people could be assured that Mr. Kennedy would not yield to the pressure of the Roman Catholic hierarchy, we would be satisfied."

He said his church, with headquarters here, has about 2,000,000 members.

TOO MUCH ACADEMICS?

More Selective Teaching Needed

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadians will have to change their thinking about education if the needs of the country's youth are to be met, a group of teachers said here. Delegates to the annual conference of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, representing more than 103,000 teachers across the country, took their cue from addresses by three guest speakers during a symposium on the role of education in a free society.

Hugh A. Benham, executive director of the Winnipeg Foundation

'Toys for Tots' Fund to Gain From Jazz Show

Advance ticket sales start this weekend in preparation for jazzman Louis Armstrong's visit here Sept. 17.

The Saturday night concert in Memorial Arena is being organized by Victoria Cosmopolitan Club to raise money for their "Toys for Tots" fund. The club has already received enquiries from out of town visitors as far away as Alberta and Nanaimo.

Prospective concertgoers from up-island areas should write the Cosmopolitan Club, box 387, Victoria, for reservations.

With him ambassador Satch will be bringing his world All-Stars and singer Velma Midleton.

A few years ago the club brought Duke Ellington to Victoria and also McGill University's skit "My Fur Lady."

Cosmopolitans tried for four months before landing their latest catch.

TR-3'S FATAL FLIP

Dramatic shot of fatal crash was caught by Jack Bowman of the Brantford, Ont., Expositor. Toronto sports-car driver Ted Pope was killed Saturday when his TR-3 turned over at Harewood

Acres track near Jarvis, Ont. The car slid in a turn and was hit from behind by another vehicle while it was attempting to negotiate the chicane, a series of bends. (CP Wirephoto.)

Champs Near End of Line?

NANAIMO — New Westminster, defending Mann Cup lacrosse champions, are just one game away from the end of the trail for 1960, and they're just in the Inter-City Lacrosse League semi-finals.

Nanaimo defeated New Westminster here, 12-5, Saturday night to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series to see who plays Vancouver in the final. Third game will be played in New Westminster tonight and possible fourth back in Nanaimo Wednesday.

Biggest crowd of the year, 2,288 paid, saw one of the most rousing games of the year in Nanaimo Arena. A wild first quarter erupted into a general free-for-all right at the end of the period.

FANS IN ACTION

Some of the 200 or so New Westminster fans who came over for the game got involved in a brawl with hometown fans to supplement the already hectic action on the floor.

Four players were sent off with minor sentences but Jack Howes of New Westminster, who seemed to be goading Nanaimo's Don Ashbee into a fracas, was given a match misconduct.

League president Bill Dickinson went to the dressing rooms of both teams and read the riot act at half time. It seemed to calm down some of the more violence-prone players and the fans enjoyed a speedy, exciting playoff game.

New Westminster goalie Les Norman stopped 35 shots as the Nanaimo team had its combinations working to advantage. But Nanaimo was well in command by the end of the third quarter, with an 11-3 lead. New Westminster

Pirate Great, Clarke Passes

WINFIELD, Kan. (AP) — Frederick Cliftord Clarke, one of baseball's greatest outfielders, died Sunday night of pneumonia. At 87, he was the oldest member of the Hall of Fame.

As player-manager, he led Pittsburgh Pirates to four National League pennants and a world championship in 16 seasons. His club finished second five times and was in the second division only twice. He spent 22 years in the big leagues.

Clarke's batting average in his major league career was .315.

HOLMAN CLEANS UP

One Fish, Three Prizes

The Holmans had quite a day at Saanich Inlet Sunday.

When Vic Holman went out salmon fishing, he bought not one but three tickets on derbies.

And when he came home, he was the winner in all three.

Victoria is still the undisputed minor lacrosse centre of B.C.

Four teams from the capital city swept the board in B.C. championship finals at New Westminster, over the weekend for the third straight year. In 1957, they won three out of four championships.

Rough, fast, bruising play characterized most of the contests in the two-game, total-point finals.

DREW ON BEAM

A six-goal outburst by Drew Schroeder helped Saanich Tigers to a 9-7 win over Saanich Sunday and the peeewee division championship. Saanich goalie Jindy Johl made 28 stops, and singles were scored by Frank Alexander, Gary Druce and Bill Walton.

Tigers won the first game Saturday, 12-10, to claim the round by a 21-17 count.

In the bantam division, Butlers squeaked by East Burnaby 11-10 Saturday but boomed back Sunday with a 13-10 victory.

The Butler aggregation was losing 7-10 going into the third period Sunday but exploded for six goals and the win.

FIVE FOR DILLON

Tej Dillon scored five goals; Don McNeill three; Ron Zilkie two; Steve Majorki, Tom Churchill and Jerry Baines one apiece.

Biggest upset of the tournament came Saturday when the highly favored New Westminster Legion juvenile "B" team was whopped 20-7 by Victoria's Butler Brothers.

Victoria's youth fifth in Soap Box Race

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Frederick Lake, 11, of South Bend, Ind., won the 23rd All American Soap Box Derby Sunday, one of the youngest ever to capture the event.

Holger Huhn of Mission City, B.C., placed fifth in the event and won a $1,000 scholarship.

Granny in Olympics

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain Sunday named a 65-year-old grandmother for its Olympic team—probably the oldest person to compete in the Rome games. Mrs. Brenda Williams, who has five grandchildren, will be one of the British horseback riders in the Grand Prix dressage event.

Billy Pierce and Early Wynn pitched the White Sox to their two victories over the A's. Pierce hurled a six-hitter for his 12th win in the opener, and Roy Sievers drove in three runs with four hits. Wynn scattered nine hits and contributed a homer in gaining his eighth victory in the nightcap.

GRAND SLAM

It was a bad day all around for the Yankees. Pitcher Camilo Pascual's first major league home, a grand slam with two out in the sixth off Bob Turley, won the opener for Washington. Then, in the 15th inning of the nightcap, loser Ralph Terry walked Bill Consolo with the bases full and yielded a two-run single to Lennie Green.

To make matters worse, Yankee slugger Roger Maris had to leave the nightcap when he suffered bruised ribs sliding into second base, and Casey Stengel angrily yanked Mickey Mantle after he failed to run out a sixth-inning grounder in the finale.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond's Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Norman Leonard, aged 16, of Lemon Grove, Calif., for his question:

What is a Coelacanth?

Coelacanth is pronounced see-luh-kant and it is the name of a strange fish often called a living fossil. The first one ever to be seen by modern man was dredged up from the deep ocean off the coast of Africa in the year 1939. The crew of the fishing boat thought that their astounding catch was worth taking ashore to be studied by experts. But they did not realize that the coelacanth had been thought extinct for some 60 million years. The internal organs, and some of the fish's bones, were lost before it reached land. But there was enough of him for the experts to be quite sure that he was indeed a living fossil.

To understand why the coelacanth stirred up such a fuss in the world of science, we must first take a look at the long history of the fishes, their development and their scientific classification. There is abundant evidence that life on earth began in the watery ocean. The first backboned animals came into being about 400 million years ago—and they were fish. They were rather small, armor-coated creatures with neither teeth nor jaws. None of these original vertebrates survived, though our lampreys and hagfish are somewhat like them.

The sharks developed some 300 million years ago, and they did survive. Though they are vertebrates, they are classed as the cartilage fishes because their skeleton is soft gristle.

At about this time, the true, bony fishes developed and most of the fishy animals in the sea are descended from them. From this group developed the flat fish, the streamlined tuna and the silvery mackerel. But the most interesting development was a group called the fringed-fins fish. These fancy fish were the ancestors of the amphibians and the reptiles which were later to brave life on the dry land.

The sharks developed some 300 million years ago, and they did survive. Though they are vertebrates, they are classed as the cartilage fishes because their skeleton is soft gristle.

Judge Pavel Mironov, who sat with two assessors and spent more than an hour considering the verdict, said the court "also considered the carelessness of the pedestrian," engineer officer Konstantin Tsybikov, 37. His injuries were officially described as "light".

Elphick, 30, was found guilty of failing to brake in time and of exceeding the speed limit by 5 1/2 miles an hour.

The maximum sentence possible was a 500-ruble fine or a year's forced labor.

Fins on Stubby Limbs

This fishy family had their fins at the end of stubby limbs, which is why the coelacanth was such a sensation. His fins were fixed at the end of stubby limbs—and the scientists were sure that these fringe-fins, or lobe-finned fishes said goodbye to the world along with the dinosaurs.

The living fossil had seven coarse fins fixed to his body by fleshy stubs. His tail was a triangular wedge of flesh, fringed with fin. He was five feet long and covered with large blue scales. The experts had to admit that the ancient

Piles Swiss Scientists develop Sulgan 99

Begins to relieve pain after only 10 minutes!

Swiss Scientists developed Sulgan 99 which begins to relieve the pain caused by piles almost immediately. Sulgan 99 contains biologically active unsaturated fatty acids, known for their healing action on skin and mucous membrane.

Many thousands of pile sufferers in Europe have not only experienced relief from pain but also actual shrinkage of hemorrhoids, thanks to this Sulgan 99 treatment. For best results, the Swiss Scientists recommend you use the Sulgan 99 Ointment by day and the Sulgan 99 Suppositories by night. Get Sulgan 99 from your drug store. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded. In case of difficulty write Diva Canada, Box 397, St. John's, Que.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

LAKE TAHOE, Nev.—Why go to the Alps when you can get high at Tahoe?

Get high, literally, that is—8,200 feet high... higher by almost half a mile than mile-high Denver. We're up here nearer Heaven than some of us will ever get again, at Harrah's, positively the biggest gambling operation I ever saw.

People pass out here all the time—from the altitude.

Chorus girls newly-arrived rush right to the oxygen tank after a strenuous dance. We had flown over the Nevada mountains from Las Vegas to Reno in a DC-3 in one of the roughest flights left in American aviation.

Such excitement when we got here! The customers were winning!

Three customers had hit the Keno game for pots of $25,000 in the last 27 days.

Bill Harrah's new luxurious club on the South Shore is the biggest thing that's happened to the community since the days when Rita Hayworth, Aya Gardner and Bobo Rockefeller came to this section for divorces. Tony Martin, Kay Starr, Diana Dors, Jerry Colonna and such folks star here for those customers who take time out from gambling.

Vacationists are pell-mell in now. Harrah's pays busses for many of them, to get them here. In the winter Harrah's is even more generous with visitors, because not as many are eager to come to this section then.

A GOOD REASON

Skiers come anxiously in the winter, but skiers are not very good gamblers as a rule. They just sit around drinking coffee.

"They don't have money to gamble," somebody explained. "They are saving their money for their next trip to the hospital."

When they get fractured here, they do it literally.

38 CHILDREN LOSE MOTHERS IN CRASH

WILMONT, Minn. (UPI) — Friends and relatives tried today to reshape the lives of 38 children whose homes were shattered by a traffic accident.

They were the living victims of Saturday's two-car collision which killed nine persons and left the inhabitants of this small southwestern Minnesota town numb with shock and grief.

Six of those killed were mothers, and townfolk rallied quickly to aid their 38 children.

Friends and relatives brought heaping baskets of food to the stricken homes and stayed to help. County businessmen made plans for a fund to help the youngsters through school.

Girl, 3, Sees Father, Brother Drown in River

(Compiled from CP)

Six persons died violently in British Columbia during the weekend—four by drowning, one in a traffic mishap and another in a fall from an apartment building window.

Hans Vanderlaan, 41, of Langton, near Vernon, and his seven-year-old son John were found drowned Sunday in the Shuswap River after a week-end fishing trip.

Mr. Vanderlaan's three-year-old daughter Nancy witnessed the drowning and told RCMP officers "Daddy slipped into the water, and Johnny went in after him."

The little girl spent 24 hours in the bush alone after the accident but was reported in excellent condition.

Raphael Pierre, about 20, is missing and presumed drowned after his capsized boat was found in Stuart Lake, about 110 miles north of Prince George.

He left Fort St. James at the south end of the lake Saturday in the 35-foot launch Aurora, on his way to work at Cuchecu'nu Lodge, half way up the lake. The boat was found Saturday night. Brof Ohisen, 55, of Vancouver was drowned in Howe Sound west of Anvil Island early Saturday while his companion, Ed Drummond, was having a nap in their small boat.

Mr. Drummond told police he dove into the water fully clothed in a vain search for his companion, after awakening from a two-hour sleep to find Ohisen missing.

Mrs. Georgina Margaret Christensen of Vancouver was killed Friday night when struck by a car while seeking help to get a car out of a ditch on the Cariboo Highway near 100-mile house.

Elmer Olson was killed when he fell 20 feet from an apartment window in Vancouver Friday night.

FORE! VANCOUVER — A bolt of lightning struck a tree on the fourth hole of Capilano golf course here Sunday, showering eight golfers with debris.

"The tree exploded into 16,000 pieces," said Capilano pro Jock McKinnon. "You would have thought a high-powered shell had hit the top of the tree." None of the golfers were hurt.

Hoo-Rays and Hoo-Rays . . .

Hoo-Rays for the good citizens of Esquimalt, who actually voted "yes" for a progressive idea . . . thus reversing the trend in this, the most vote-noingest area of them all . . . long may they continue to accentuate the affirmative . . .

Hoo-Rays for the proponents of the fall-out shelter school of thought currently being foisted on us once-proud Canadians . . . to no avail, I hope and trust.

When the time comes that we have to dig a hole, crawl into it, and pull it over us, the time has come to go quietly.

To the nearest booby-hatch.

Hoo-Rays for the razzle-dazzle, whoop-de-do, political campaign that makes voters aware something is going on. We voters don't get a chance to be noticed very often, so when we do, let's have some fun, eh?

Hoo-Rays for the pessimists who say the tourist industry of this, the fairest city of them all, is on the wane because air travel is making access to far distant places so easy to one and all.

Air travel is a two-way street, and to several million people this, the fairest city of them all, is a far distant place.

All we need do is let them know they're welcome.

Hoo-Ray to the unidentified Able Bodied Seaman who defined duty so ably a week or so ago.

It seems a bunch of the boys were yakking it up in the Navy's Naden barracks.

And the subject up for beefing was the order to "volunteer" for duty at the Pacific National Exhibition, this involving much marching up and down and back and forth and shouldering of arms, etc.

So the unidentified AB, taking note of the fact Canadian soldiers are Africa-bound, said:

"I'd rather be an AB at the PNE than a Pongo in the Congo."

And a final Hoo-Ray to all the members of the Human Race who, while realizing they aren't going to win it, are still in there running their best.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The city fire department today lifted its ban on the burning of garbage and garden material as the result of Sunday's rain. But residents must still obtain permits for the burning of refuse in their backyards.

Winners of the monthly master point tournament of the Victoria Unit, American Contract Bridge League were:

First, Lillian Le Butt and Guy Dickson; second, Audrey and Albert Jorgenson; third, Laura Tingley and Velma Acres; fourth, Madge Mechem and Isabel Artlett.

City police reported today that thieves broke into a car owned by Darel Selkirk, 3321 Kingsley Street, Sunday, and stole a woman's purse containing $80. The car was parked on Market Street near Douglass.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Can a person look through old copies of the Times or Colonist between 1934-38?—M.E.D.

A.—Anyone can look through back copies of this newspaper simply by coming into the "morgue" or library and utilizing the microfilm.

Q.—One of the requirements to become a Canadian citizen is to follow a course in citizenship, followed by a written examination. Is this the necessary procedure throughout Canada or is it a local one?—R.B.

A.—This procedure is left up to the discretion of local judges. In Victoria the course is necessary.

Anyone wishing a question answered, should send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be printed in the newspaper. All questions should deal with matters of fact and of general interest. The editor reserves the right to accept or reject any question and to shorten or condense or legal problems. No will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

Thieves broke into the Victoria Curling Rink Sunday and stole money from two cigarette machines, city police reported today. Nothing else was stolen.

They gained admission into the rink through sliding doors at the rear of the building. The doors were not properly secured.

Condition of Robert Jarrett, 17, 3840 Synod, who was injured in a traffic accident Saturday, was described as satisfactory by Royal Jubilee Hospital officials today.

Mr. Jarrett suffered a broken arm and leg injuries when he was in collision with a car driven by David Heyer, 1278 Bay Street, at Gosworth and Hillside.

Jerry Gosley's Summer Show enters its final week at the Langham Court Theatre, off Rockland Avenue, tonight at 8:15 p.m. Victoria baritone John Dunbar will be guest soloist all this week.

Central Saanich police today captured one of two dogs which they believe killed more than 100 chickens Saturday on the poultry farm of Sam Jones, 1976 Keating Cross Road.

The dog has been sent to the SPCA shelter.

A second dog which took part in the killings and escaped has not yet been found. Mr. Jones, who depends on the birds for his livelihood, discovered the raid on his property on his return from the market. He drove the marauders off with a shotgun.

Unconscious Woman Dragged From Fire

Smoking In Bed Blamed

Quick acting Victoria firemen Sunday night saved an elderly woman from asphyxiation in a smoke-filled five-room bungalow at 414 Government Street.

Rescued from her bedroom was Mrs. Mary Gillespie, 70, who was found lying unconscious on the floor overcome by smoke. She was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital.

A cigaret is believed to have started the fire in the woman's bed.

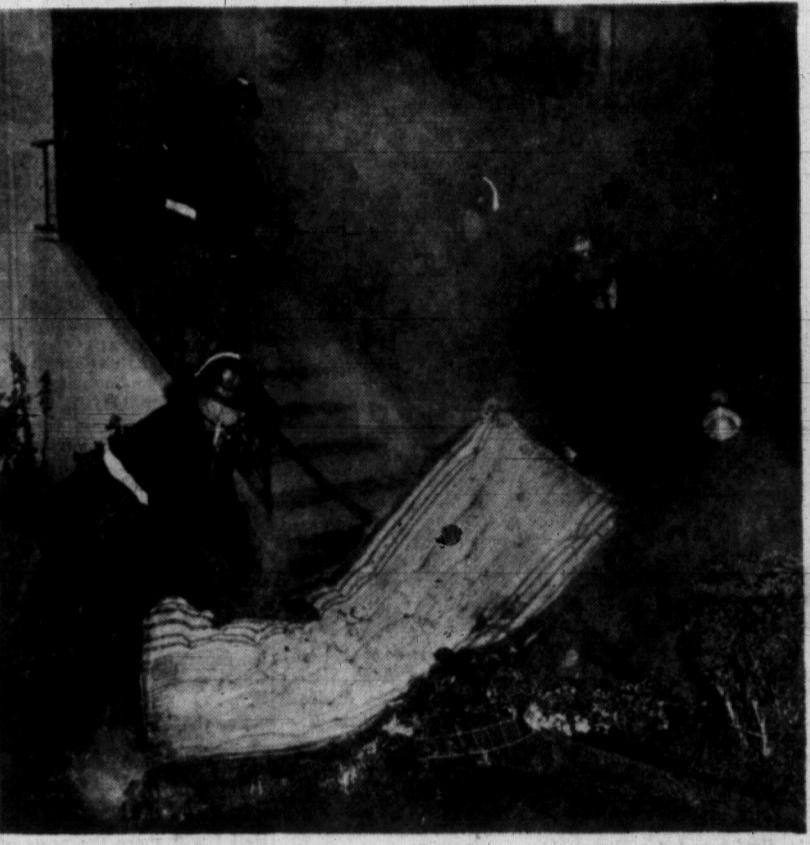

When firemen arrived at the house at 9:49 p.m., the bed was smouldering mass.

Acting Lieutenant Carl Coates and fireman William Jackman from the James Bay fire hall found the woman on the floor near a window.

They said in another two minutes the room would have been in flames.

Fire damage was limited to a small portion of the floor, but smoke damage was extensive.

Firemen said the house is owned by Mrs. Olive Prescott who is out of town. Mrs. Gillespie had been left in charge of the bungalow.

DEAR ABBY

If It Makes Her Happy!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We know a lady who was married to a man for 36 years. She divorced him and married another man. She stayed married to Husband Number Two for 13 years, and then divorced him and turned around and married Husband Number One again. Now she is going around telling everybody that next year they will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. I say in order to be eligible for a golden wedding anniversary you must have spent the whole 50 years with the same husband. Am I wrong or are we just a lot of small-town people with big mouths? SUTTOR.

DEAR SUTTOR: Tell her your doctor doesn't want you buying a cat in the bag as it could be bad for your nerves. Demand the facts.

DEAR FRIENDS: Only couples who have been married to each other for 50 consecutive years are eligible to celebrate a golden wedding anniversary. If she wants to call it her "golden" anniversary, you can't stop her, but it's not solid gold. It's more like reclaimed scrap.

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a woman who is only 28 and has had three husbands. I am 33 and have never been married. I want to marry her but every time I ask her to tell me the

Fashion Editor Goes East For Showings

By NONA DAMASKE

This week 70 women fashion editors, radio and television commentators are in Toronto for an exciting new adventure.

The Dress Manufacturers' Guild of that city, with the support of leading Toronto manufacturers of coats, suits, accessories and furs are presenting the highlights from their fall and winter collections.

Toronto's "Country Club" Hotel, the Guild Hall, on Lake Ontario is setting for this first Canadian fashion press "do" on a national scale.

Victoria Daily Times is the most westerly newspaper represented and Sylvia Wight of the St. John's, Newfoundland, Evening Telegram is the most easterly delegate. There are nine French-Canadian gals from Quebec City, Montreal and Ottawa.

Mrs. Olive Dickason of the Globe Magazine; Miss Joyce Carter of Kitchener-Waterloo Record and Mrs. Joy McGillivray of the Wool Bureau of Canada, all winners of "Judy" award are here. These awards, given by the Ontario Market Garment Salesman's Organization, were won by Mrs. Dickason and Miss Carter for fashion reporting and by Mrs. McGillivray for fashion promotion.

For those of us who are far removed from the garment industry this promises to be a stimulating week. As the fashion shows unfold in the main auditorium of the Guildwood Hall I will share the news of Canadian fashions with you in this column.

Now making their home in Calgary are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frederick Iddiols, who were married in St. John's Anglican Church last month. Canon George Biddle conducted the double-ring ceremony.

Bride, the former Miss Olive Edna Marjorie Askey, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Askey of Victoria. Groom's parents are Mrs. C. A. Iddiols, Calgary, and the stephanotis. Her father gave her in marriage.

Bridesmaid, Miss Barbara Gibbons, wore pale green taffeta and net gown with white accessories and carried a bouquet of pale pink and white carnations.

Best man was William Langford and the ushers were Peter Johnston and Dave Hatton.

Reception was held in Holyrood House. A three-tier cake, made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. R. H. Abbott, centred the refreshment table which was also decorated with red roses.

Toasts were proposed by uncle of the bride, R. H. Abbott, and an old friend, Peter Moe. An orchestra played for dancing.

Make favorite biscuit dough using 2 cups of flour or packaged mix. Roll $\frac{1}{4}$ inch thick cover with peaches. Roll up like jelly roll, press edges together, cut in 2-inch slices. Place in greased 8-inch square pan. Combine remaining ingredients, cook gently until slightly thickened. Pour over slices in pan. Bake in 425 degree F. oven for 30 to 35 minutes. Serve with plain or whipped cream.

Bride Carries Grandmother's Cameo at Her Wedding Saturday

Carrying a cameo that once belonged to her grandmother, Margaret Elaine Mills became the bride of Hartley Noel McRae in St. John's Anglican Church, Colwood, Saturday evening. Rev. D. A. Hatfield officiated.

Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd George Mills of Victoria, and groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. McRae of North Surrey, B.C.

For the evening ceremony, pews were decorated with white satin ribbon tied in bows and altar was decorated with baskets of gladioli.

Bride chose a floor-length gown of white lace and nylon net posed over satin. Basque bodice featured lily-point sleeves and a scalloped collar edged with iridescent sequins. The dipped waistline flowed into a full hoop skirt of net with a lace overskirt. A lace tiara decorated with seed pearls, held her chapel-length silk illusion veil. She carried red roses, white stephanotis and ivy.

Bridesmaids — Sharon Mills and Linda Sage wore identical sky-blue, waltz-length gowns of white lace over rayon taffeta. Pleated nylon chiffon swathed the necklines and formed panels at the back. White accessories and pink carnations completed the ensemble.

Winston McRae was best man for his brother, William Hamilton. Ronald Mills, brother of the bride, and Brian Butterfield, ushered.

A three-tier wedding cake flanked by pink candles in silver candelabra centred the bride's table for the reception in Langford Community Hall. W. M. Kennedy proposed the toast to his bride.

For receiving guests, Mrs. McRae, groom's mother, chose a silk nylon sheath dress in muted blue floral tones. Mrs. Mills wore a blue lace sheath with matching jacket. Their accessories were white.

For a honeymoon trip into the interior of British Columbia the new Mrs. McRae chose a fitted beige suit and a moss green cashmere coat. Her corsage was pink sweet heart roses.

Don't Neglect Slipping FALSE TEETH

Do false teeth drop, slip or wobble when you talk, eat, laugh or sneeze? Don't be annoyed and embarrassed by this. Just add a few drops of an alkaline (non-acid) powder to sprinkle on your plates, keeps false teeth more firmly set. Gives confident feel. For sets and dentures, too. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Get FASTEETH today at drug counters everywhere.

VANCOUVER ISLAND ROUNDUP

Six Victorians In Car Crashes

DUNCAN—Mrs. Marjorie Lyon, 3835 Wilkinson Road, was in Victoria's St. Joseph's Hospital today suffering a broken nose received when her car went out of control and hit a rock cut near the Malahat summit late Sunday.

She was one of eight persons—six of them Victorians—by Duncan, Shawnigan Lake and Colwood RCMP.

Richard John Burgess, Victoria, lost control of his vehicle at 7:10 p.m. Rolling into the ditch on the Trans-Canada Highway about two miles north of Mill Bay. Damage was about $250.

A vehicle driven by Stanley Fred Blundell, Victoria, hit the left rear of a second southbound car driven by Cyril Alfred Price, Victoria, at 4:45 p.m. Damage to the cars totalled $350. The accident occurred on the Trans-Canada Highway, at Hillbank Road.

SHAKEN UP

A car with two occupants rolled from the Trans-Canada Highway just north of Duncan, in mid-afternoon. The driver, Benedict Leo Komanz, of Victoria, was shaken up and suffered a cut face. The passenger, Mrs. Margaret Longbottom, also of Victoria, was not injured. Damage to the car was about $300. The car went out of control as it passed a second vehicle just near the Somenos Farm food stand.

In Duncan a car travelling east on Craig Street, driven by Carl Iverson, of Duncan, was in collision with a car driven by Laurent Primeau, of Prince Albert. Damage totalled about $125.

DUNCAN—The 74-year-old ailing mother of convicted murderer Tom Symes has appealed for transfer of the 35-year-old man to the minimum security prison at William Head.

Mrs. Nellie Symes has not seen her son since his life imprisonment commutation for the murder, January 1, 1957, of Paul Powling, then 25, in the bedroom of Symes' wife's apartment. He was first sentenced to be hanged.

Mrs. Symes is ill and cannot make the trip to the Mainland.

DUNCAN—September 6 has been set by dairymen of the Cowichan area for a meeting to hear the three candidates for Cowichan-Newcastle.

The Eagles Hall in Duncan has been hired and Archie Stevenson will be chairman.

Mrs. Hazel Fee, Social Credit, and J. J. Kerrone, Conservative, have accepted invitations to attend, but CCF Opposition Leader Robert Strachan had not yet been reached.

DUNCAN—Final payment of $3,500 on Cowichan Exhibition grounds will be made at the opening of the 1960 fair Sept. 10 by Cowichan Agricultural Society.

The farmers' organization has voted to make the final payment on $20,000 total cost and hand it over to the exhibition planning board chairman during the official opening.

Much will still remain to be done to complete buildings and facilities but all debt on the grounds will be cleared. This has been accomplished in three years.

NORTH COWICHAN—Directors of Cowichan Farmers' Institute have prepared three resolutions for the District "A" Farmers' Institute convention in Nanaimo next month.

They want additional staff to be provided for 4H work by the provincial department of agriculture.

They say that the district agriculturist in any given area cannot cope with the tremendous junior farmer movement and give adequate time to other agricultural problems.

Directors will ask for additional facilities for analysis of soil and forage crops samples in Victoria for Vancouver Island farmers. Present facilities make it almost impossible to get forage analyses done, they claim.

The third resolution will again ask the provincial government to strictly enforce regulations covering dog licensing in unorganized territory and suggest the SPCA be employed to handle all small animal problems.

GANGES—Executive of the re-organized Salt Spring Island Liberal Association consists of Rand Young, president; C. R. Horst, vice president; Mrs. I. B. Devine, secretary treasurer, and W. M. Mouat and Bob Akerman, membership committee.

LIQUOR 'CONTRIBUTED' TO DEATH OF WOMAN

DUNCAN—Liquor was "a contributing factor" in the July 8 traffic death of Mrs. Lillian Cecil, a coroner's jury has decided here.

Mrs. Cecil, mother of four, was a passenger in a car in which, evidence disclosed, all occupants had been drinking.

The car crashed off Maple Bay Road. Driver was Anthony Williams. The jury recommended the attorney-general's department be requested to initiate more patrolling of beer parlors and liquor lounges and to intensify roadblocks, especially during weekends, in an effort to stop drinkers from driving.

He was not identified. This brought to 96 the number of confirmed police cases in B.C. this year.

LUXTON—A unique door prize at the Aug. 26-27 Luxton Fall Fair will be a purebred Shetland pony, saddle and bridle, valued at $250.

Show entries expected to total at least 1,500, close this Friday.

A parade featuring clowns, floats, queen contestants and vintage cars will leave Belmont High School at 1 p.m. Aug. 26 and go to the fair's site, Luxton Farmers' Institute.

Official opening will be at 1:30 p.m. Aug. 27 by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Breathtaking Shades and Shapes In Glorious Imported Millinery

The most important news in the fashion world this fall is the resurgence of hats that are more than just hats. These marvellously stunning millinery models imported from Europe and the United States are tall and soaring, imposing and utterly feminine, in the softest, most luxurious fabrics and plushest furs. The high shapes add important balance to fall clothes and run the gamut from deep bowl shapes through dome and fez styles, to high, turret cloches and shakos. Shades from golden glow to deer brown, from clear, bright jewel colours to stained glass window reflections. These are the colours—these are the shapes—see them now at EATON'S, in couturier models or equally fashionable counterparts for the budget-wise.

RUSSIAN EXPERTS QUIT CHINA 'BY TRAINLOAD'

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet technicians and advisers were reported today to be leaving Communist China "by the trainload" apparently as the result of worsening relations between Moscow and Peking.

The reports came from Yugoslav correspondents in the Red Chinese capital and obviously passed strict censorship. French sources said they had received similar reports.

PRISON BUILDINGS SET ABLAZE

Smoke rises from burning gymnasium at Stoney Mountain Penitentiary near Winnipeg at height of prison riot Sunday. One prisoner was shot to death, three guards beaten before inmates were subdued.

Convict Killed When Rioters Storm Manitoba Penitentiary

Seven Hurt in Uprising; 'Goofballs' Involved?

WINNIPEG (CP) — A prisoner at Stoney Mountain penitentiary was shot and killed Sunday afternoon as prison guards quelled an uprising by fire-setting prisoners.

Twelve convicts rushed the dome, nerve centre of the prison 14 miles north of downtown Winnipeg, and started fires in a cell block and other buildings.

The dead prisoner was identified as Albert Mercier, about 35. He was believed to be from Western Canada and serving a three-year term.

Four other prisoners were wounded by gunshots. They were taken to Winnipeg General Hospital where they were reported to be in serious condition. Three unarmed guards were beaten in the disturbance, but were released from hospital after emergency treatment.

Mercier was reported to have been killed by a bullet that ricocheted from a wall.

Warden Charles Des Rosiers said he did not know what caused the outbreak of violence.

'Some of Them Got Pretty High'

"They told us some of the officers sent out from Winnipeg got plenty high on these goofballs," Johnson said in an interview. "They reported that when two guards went to quiet them down they started fighting with the guards."

The flames destroyed the small, brick sports equipment storage building and the large brick gymnasium and recreation building.

Smoke was visible in downtown Winnipeg and fire equipment was called from the city.

Warden Des Rosiers said the other prisoners—about 400 are in the penitentiary—did not take part in the disturbance. They stayed in the yard, supervised by guards and RCMP.

Girls Drugged 'To Hide Affair'

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Police said today the mother of the "sleeping beauty" sisters gave the little girls drugs as part of a "guilt complex" to cover up her secret love affair. Mrs. Lilian Fratantonio, 29, told her husband details of her infidelity, then called in police to confess she gave the drugs which put the girls in a coma.

Rioting in Katanga Ignored by UN Troops

ELISABETHVILLE, Congo (AP) — Police used tear gas today to break up street demonstrations against Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe.

United Nations troops, pledged to political neutrality, looked the other way.

The Swedish UN troops were out on their first day of patrol in Elisabethville after taking over guard duties from Belgian soldiers who had lent support to Tshombe's demands for independence from Premier Patrice Lumumba's central government in Leopoldville.

Following the arrival of UN troops last weekend, Tshombe's police began moving around the city, throwing tear gas bombs whenever large groups refused to disperse. Members of the opposition

'SOMETHING TO HIDE' IN PREPARING TRIAL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States charged today that the reason Russia has refused to allow U.S. diplomats to interview U-2 pilot Francis G. Powers is because the Reds have "something to conceal" involving preparation of his trial.

The State Department said Secretary of State Christian A. Herter made this charge in a letter to Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko last week.

The letter was handed to Gromyko Friday by U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow Friday.

Powers Lawyer 'To Do Utmost'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Mikhail Grinev, the court-appointed Soviet lawyer for American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, said today "I will do my utmost to fight for Powers' life" in his spy trial opening Wednesday.

The elderly, goateed Moscow attorney made the statement at his first meeting with Oliver Powers, father of the 30-year-old American flier whose plane was downed over Sverdlovsk May 1 while on a reconnaissance flight over the Soviet Union.

After meeting Powers father and mother, the fatherly-looking Grinev went into conference with Powers wife, Barbara, 24.

SEVERAL HOURS

Grinev told Virginia attorney Alexander Parker, who came here with Barbara Powers to assist the family when the pilot goes on trial, that he had spent several hours this morning with the accused man.

The senior Powers asked Grinev how he could arrange a "father-to-father" meeting with Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The Soviet attorney said Powers should apply through the usual channels and he would get a reply.

Powers' wife and his parents were keeping apart in their dealings with Soviet officialdom and Grinev giving rise to rumors of a rift. There were signs of coolness between them.

Mrs. Powers was accompanied by her own attorney when she talked with Grinev.

Americans and other westerners in the Soviet capital also were upset at report of arrangements by each side to tell the stories of their Soviet experiences to western publications.

Western observers in Moscow got the impression they were "innocents abroad."

VERY UPSET

Pilot's Wife 'Scared'

(See also page 5)

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Barbara Powers said today she was "very upset" and "becoming more frightened" as the Russian spy trial of her husband approached.

She told Western reporters she did not know whether she will be allowed to see her husband, Francis Powers, before the trial begins Wednesday—his 31st birthday.

He faces charges carrying a maximum penalty of death as pilot of the American U-2 plane shot down 1,200 miles inside Russia.

Pale, but dignified and composed, Mrs. Powers, 24, said her husband had written her six days ago saying, "I want to see you very much."

Mrs. Powers said she felt that the state department in the beginning of the case and "even now" could have done more.

UNDER ORDERS

Asked whether she thought it would be difficult for Powers to return to the U.S. if he pleaded guilty, she replied:

"No, I don't think so. After all, our government sent him. He was under orders."

"He has pleaded guilty to being only the pilot of the plane whose wreckage was found. I feel this is normal. How else could he plead?"

4 Believed Dead In Avalanche

VANCOUVER (CP) — An air search for traces of four Vancouver mountain climbers believed crushed to death in a giant avalanche on towering Mount Waddington was called off temporarily today.

Members of the B.C. Mountain Rescue Group were to fly over the area but the trip had to be put off because the RCMP plane they were to use was in need of servicing.

The loss of the four climbers was the worst mountain-climbing accident in B.C. history and is believed to have happened more than two weeks ago as the party sought to scale Waddington, known as a "killer mountain."

Elfride Pigou, 38, was one of two women who joined a pair of men for the assault on the 13,260-foot peak 175 miles northwest of here. Thousands of tons of ice dropped from an overhanging cliff and crushed them.

The accident probably happened July 30, but word of it was not received until Saturday.

They apparently never got higher than 8,200 feet.

Packing Supplies Below Ice Cliff

Frank Fickelsen of Seattle, head of the American party, said they saw the Vancouver climbers packing supplies on to a flat place on a glacier beneath an ice cliff July 30.

When the Americans climbed to the spot two days later, they found an ice slide some 150 yards wide and up to 10 feet deep. Buried in it were the remnants of the Canadians' camp site.

Their tracks led to the slide. The Americans, who had followed the prints through soft snow, made the sickening discovery that no tracks led out again.

"I feel sure they were all killed at once," Fickelsen said.

"On Monday (Aug. 1) we came to a very steep glacial area and what appeared to be a campsite on a flat area covered with fresh debris," he said.

'YOU'LL NEVER KNOW WHY'

Mountain's Victim Had to Try Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Owen never expected people to understand what it was that made him go back to climb British Columbia's "killer mountain" a second time.

"You can't understand what it's like on top unless you've been there," he told friends.

That was shortly before he left his home here last month to scale Mount Waddington, 175 miles northwest of Vancouver. He died with his three companions July 30 when they were buried by an avalanche at the 8,200-foot level of the 13,260-foot peak.

"Standing on that peak is like someone telling you it was worth it," said the 24-year-old climber, member of a group which became the first Canadian party to make the ascent two years ago.

On the 1958 climb Owen fell

200 feet and escaped with a gashed hand. This time he expected the climb to be easier because he knew the route. He also knew the history of Mount Waddington and the names of those who had climbed it and those who failed.

He said a veteran Alpine climber who scaled the peak described it as the most difficult mountain of its size in the world to climb.

He planned a color photographic record of the latest ascent.

John's mother, Mrs. Francis Owen, was opposed to the climb.

"He did it once and I felt he should leave it alone," she said. "He loved mountains but he never thought of the risk—if he had come back he would be out again climbing some other mountain."

MIDNIGHT SIGHTING TIME ESTIMATED FOR 'SATELLOON'

The 10-storey-high U.S. balloon satellite "Echo" should be visible over Victoria just after midnight tonight and again at 2 a.m.

The satellite should be seen in a medium southeasterly direction at 12:01 a.m. and at high south at 2 a.m., according to a timetable issued in Washington by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

It will be travelling from west to east.

It should have passed over Victoria around 12:24 a.m. and 2:27 a.m. today.

However, the satellite has not been seen as yet from the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Little Saanich Mountain.

"Some people phoned to say they had seen it around 10 p.m. Saturday," an official said. "They reported that it was travelling very low in the south-east. This seems in accord with official calculations."

If weather conditions are favorable, the observatory will attempt to photograph the "Echo" with its special "Sputnik" camera early Tuesday.

This is done by opening the shutter for about half a minute and then rotating the camera.

Russell Bompas, radio technician for the Department of National Defence at Esquimalt, reported seeing the huge aluminum-coated communications balloon soon after midnight Friday.

"I watched for it again on Saturday, Sunday and early today but without result," he said. "I shall keep at it."

SASKATOON — Sir Robert Williams, the baronet brakeman who disliked his title, returned today from his estate in England and declared: "I've never been so fed up in my life."

"For a solid month I've been written up every time I turned around," said Sir Robert, a Canadian National Railways brakeman from Kamsack, Sask., who inherited the baronetcy of Tregullow in Devonshire six weeks ago.

"I've been misquoted more often than quoted. I'm damn sick of it."

Sir Robert, whose estate is estimated to be worth $500,000, said he plans to continue working in Saskatchewan until legal and tax problems are settled in England.

After inheriting the title and estate, the 36-year-old brakeman expressed the hope he could avoid being called a "sir."

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — A 23-year-old prisoner became wedged in ventilation shaft while trying to escape from the city jail. It took police, firemen and two physicians more than two hours to rescue him Sunday.

LYNTON, England — An escaped prisoner was recaptured near here and told police that after escaping he walked 18 miles only to find at dawn that he had unknowingly circled back to the prison farm where he had started.

LUCCA, Italy — A second child has been born to Count Aubrey Tealdi and his wife Princess Lidia Caraccioli, whose marriage five years ago caused a stir because he was 74 and she was 15. They had a daughter in 1957, and the latest addition is a boy.

DORION, Que. — Dr. Barbara Moore, the 56-year-old marathon walker, reached this community 20 miles west of Montreal Sunday on the first stage of her hike to Toronto.

The hardy Briton expects to average 35 miles a day for the 350-mile trip and hopes to arrive in Toronto Aug. 24 for the opening of the Canadian National Exhibition.

BENTONVILLE, Ark. — Leonard Lovell summoned an ambulance to rush his expectant wife to the hospital but the baby was born before it got to the house.

Mrs. Lovell and the baby girl were taken to the hospital. Lovell, after seeing them settled there, returned home. A few minutes later the telephone rang.

"You're the father of twins," the hospital informed him. "Two girls, identical."

OTTAWA — External Affairs Minister Howard Green today is putting the finishing touches on a speech he hopes will convince Russia and her satellites to resume disarmament negotiations.

Informed sources said the speech is one of the "toughest" ever prepared for delivery by a Canadian external affairs minister.

Mr. Green will make the speech personally before the United Nations disarmament commission, which meets Tuesday in New York. The minister anticipates getting the floor on the first day.

The disarmament commission meeting was sought by Canada and the U.S. following the Russian walkout at the 10-nation disarmament committee meeting in Geneva, which in turn followed the collapse of the summit meeting.

Mr. Green said today the disarmament commission meeting is important. "We are hoping to bring about a resumption of the 10-nation committee talks," he said. Failure would mean there is no forum for discussing disarmament, apart from the UN General Assembly.

The Canadian government believes the 10-nation committee, of which Canada is one of the five western nations, is the best body to deal with disarmament. Mr. Green would not discuss the subject-matter of his speech, but he said "it is up to the nuclear powers. The final responsibility for disarmament rests with them."

Observers see considerable significance in Mr. Green's personal intervention at New York. It is known the government was dissatisfied with the failure of its disarmament advisor, Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, to take an independent stand at the Geneva talks. Gen. Burns will attend the disarmament commission meeting but the minister will do the changeover ceremonies.

MAKARIOS takes over CABINET HITCH

New Cyprus Independent Tonight

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — President-elect Archbishop Makarios ran into a hitch to his attempt to complete the first cabinet for the new Cyprus republic, which comes into being at midnight tonight.

Nicos Kranidiotis, a former suspected member of the Greek-Cypriot EOKA underground organization, refused the post of foreign minister which he was offered Sunday night.

Kranidiotis, 48, once Makarios' chief secretary, now serving as his diplomatic representative in Greece, gave no reason for his decision.

Meanwhile the preparations went ahead for the inauguration Tuesday of the rest of the cabinet. It includes men who fought against British security forces in the bitter four-year emergency which cost nearly 700 lives, before Britain gave up its 82-year rule over the island.

Prospective minister of the Interior Polycarpous Georg Hadjis, 29, was an EOKA fighter who escaped from British custody three times. He carried a price of £5,000 on his head at one time.

Independence festivities today were confined to the Turkish quarters of the island where preparations began for the traditional animal sacrifices. In the Greek quarters no excitement was apparent as the long-sought independence neared.

The ministry of justice announced the release of 106 Cypriot prisoners today to mark independence. The sentences of 83 prisoners ranging from one month to several years have also been remitted, the announcement said.

Sir Hugh Foot, the island's last British governor, Makarios and Fadiel Kutchuk, the Turkish vice-president-elect, will take part in the midnight changeover ceremonies.

KEPT IN STAIRWELL, FATHER JAILED

'Funny Little Boy' Cooped Up by Parents

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — A father of four was in jail today charged with child neglect as police investigated the case of his four-year-old son who was found in a dark and dirty cubicle of his home.

Police said the father, Rudolph Escamilla, 29, told and bumps on his head, them his son, Anthony, had. Police were puzzled by the parents' explanations.

"We ashamed, we ashamed," was all Mrs. Escamilla would say, indicating, police said, the boy was mentally retarded.

"He's my son," the father said.

"I love it. No one will understand our own problem."

Escamilla said the boy used to bang his head against the wall and once struck himself on the head with a hammer.

"He's a funny little boy," one of the nurses in the children's ward at Silver Cross Hospital told a reporter. "He answers questions in Spanish and English, but never asks for his parents."

Police broke into the make-shift five by 10-foot prison on Saturday night after neighbors reported they heard a child crying after the Escamilla family had left the apartment.

The boy, wearing only a T-shirt, was sitting on a pile of rags, which was his bed.

Anthony was taken to a hospital. Authorities said there was fruit juice, Ferris said.

She told the detective that for a time she believed the drugs relieved any suffering associated with intravenous feeding. The two children, who had lapsed off into sudden comas, were fed intravenously while they slept.

Bernadette's "illness" first came to light last September and she was taken to hospital. Her affliction drew wide attention.

But Mrs. Fratantonio could give no reason for giving the sleep-producing drugs to another child, Venita, 5, who began suffering from the mysterious comas last month.

Mrs. Fratantonio said she felt that by giving the young child drugs which she would call a mysterious illness, she might win back the affection of her husband.

Mrs. Fratantonio, daughter of a dentist, said she meant no harm to her children.

Her husband, a brewery company employee, was stunned by the news of his wife's admission.

Earlier, he had visited his wife, along with a Roman Catholic priest. He said she told him: "If I did it, I don't remember it."

Then a few hours later, she unb burdened her story.

Mrs. Fratantonio, who stood by the hospital beds of her children throughout their apparent illnesses, gave the drugs by mixing them in with milk.

Eased-Money Policy Seen As New Spark

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board acted last week to make money easier and cheaper to borrow. The business world hoped the moves would light a fire under the United States economy.

First, the board relaxed its rules governing how much cash banks must keep on hand as reserves. This freed about $660,000,000 for lending to meet rising credit needs. These funds were expected to generate an increase of about $3,600,000,000 in lending power.

Then the board authorized New York, Cleveland, Kansas City and Richmond to cut their discount rate to three per cent from 3 1/2. Banks in the other eight districts were expected to follow.

This rate is the interest member banks pay when they borrow from the federal reserve system.

The rate had been reduced to 3 1/4 from 4 per cent in June.

The lower rate was expected to exert increased pressure on banks to lower the prime rate—the interest they charge the biggest and best-rated firms and other lending charges. The prime rate now is five per cent.

MARKET ADVANCE

The stock market advanced every day last week. The eased money policy was given some of the credit.

Brokers said part of the market's improved spirit seemed due to anticipation of better business conditions later in the year.

Employment increased 110,000 to 68,889,000 from mid-June to mid-July, unemployment dropped by 406,000 to 4,017,000.

On the darker side was an indication that consumers are curtailing their buying plans for the rest of the year. A survey by the national industrial conference board showed that plans for every category measured, except new cars, declined in the second quarter from the first quarter and from the start of the year.

The automobile industry's change-over to 1961 models picked up speed and for the first time this year production fell below 100,000 cars a week. The estimated output was 85,000. Production this month is estimated at 317,000 cars, including 80,000 1961 models.

Steel output was estimated at 54.6 per cent of capacity, up only slightly from last week's 53.9.

Big Order Seen Firm For Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—A big order from Europe for the Canadian electronics industry is considered almost in the bag.

Informants said the order may reach $20,000,000 or about one-fifth of the Canadian electronics industry's normal annual business.

It will be for flight simulators of the American F-104 supersonic jet plane which Canada, West Germany, Belgium and The Netherlands are all building for their air forces. A simulator is used to train pilots on the ground and it can duplicate exactly almost every experience of flight.

PRIME CONTRACTOR

Contract for the simulators is expected to go to Canadian Aviation Electronics Limited of Montreal. In the ordinary course of events, it would sub-contract a lot of the work.

It is understood that the order from West Germany for $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 worth of simulators is firm. Belgium and The Netherlands are expected to place orders in the next several weeks. It is believed their orders will amount to $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 each.

Meanwhile, placing of orders by U.S. companies with Canadian electronics and aircraft parts firms in recent weeks has been uncommonly brisk.

Thomson to Aid Nigerian Press

TORONTO (CP)—The Thomson newspaper interests have entered a partnership agreement with Amalgamated Press of Nigeria under which it is intended to develop "modern national newspapers" in the west-coast African federation now nearing independence.

Amalgamated Press asked for Thomson help. It now publishes the Daily Service, Sunday Express and weekly Srobin Yoruba in Lagos, Nigerian capital. Of these, only the Sunday Express becomes part of the new company as a national weekend paper. A new paper, The Express, will be founded as Nigeria's first national daily.

Court Accounting Of Chrysler Asked By Stockholders

DETROIT (AP)—

A second group of stockholders has asked for a court accounting from the directors and officers of Chrysler Corp.

Sol Dann of Detroit, long-time critic of the auto company's management, along with Karl Horyath of Detroit and Samuel S. Schwartzberg of New York, filed a petition in chancery court in Wilmington, Del., Friday asking that a receiver be appointed for the corporation.

Already pending against

Chrysler officials is a New York suit by stockholder Robert Markiewich which seeks to determine what, if any, damages the corporation may have suffered because of mismanagement or misconduct on the part of its officers and directors. A hearing is due Aug. 22.

Alta. Distillers Sales Increase, Profits Decline

VANCOUVER (CP)—

Alberta Distillers Ltd. had sales of more than $4,700,000 in the fiscal year ended May 31, but net income was down, the annual report to shareholders showed.

The report showed sales up $117,802 to $4,767,110 for the fiscal year. Net profit was $362,264, or 10 cents a share, compared with $596,156, or 17 cents a share, in the previous year.

George H. Reifel, president, said several factors contributed to the decline in earnings, foremost of which was an increase in federal excise and sales taxes and the consequent provincial markups pyramidizing these additional taxes.

The report showed gross profit after sales costs of $2,520,523, a drop of $146,297. Selling, advertising and promotion costs took $1,039,976, spirits among steel investors as "steel Company" of Canada gained $2, and Dominion Foundries improved more than $1.

Papers, banks and utilities all were strong while foods eased slightly. Dominion Stores losing 75 cents at 59 1/2.

Senior base metals and copers scored substantial gains—Ventures up $2.50 and Consolidated Smelters up $1—and Geco each gained 25 cents.

By the weekend, most western oils were reaching their speculative peak, although Home B and Calgary and Edmonton stubbornly traded higher.

Calgary and Edmonton improved $2 on the week, Pacific Petroleum gained $1.50 and Home B was up $1.

Of the 335 issues traded at Toronto this week, 440 gained, 227 declined and 148 were unchanged.

Final volume at Toronto last week was 10,475,000 compared with the 6,635,000 shares traded last week. Value was $25,841,283, the highest since the beginning of April—compared with $18,558,037 last week.

Of the 358 issues traded at Montreal this week, 185 advanced, 67 declined and 136 were unchanged.

B.C. Forest Products' unique barge was christened Aug. 6. $700,000 self-loading barge has and went into action Aug. 11. performed its first real test. Arriving at Clayoquot Sound last Friday it began loading power tug Superior Straits for brilliancy.

Built by Yarrows Ltd., the logs at 9:45 a.m. Nineteen hours later the barge with 4,800 short tons of logs began its tow behind 1,600-horsepower tug Superior Straits for Victoria.

Tug and barge arrived 24 hours later—at 7 p.m. Sunday—and unloaded its cargo in 45 minutes at Plumper Bay in Esquimalt Harbor.

TWO CRANES

First barge of its kind built anywhere which combines self-loading with self-dumping, the B.C. Forest Products barge Forest Prince is 305 feet long, 60 feet wide and 10 feet deep.

It is equipped with two 35-foot cranes which allow fast loading in any cover or sound. Previously log barges could only pick up loads in waterways where stationary land cranes could handle log loading.

FOUR LANES SOON?

Surveyors At Work On Highway

The provincial highways department is surveying Pat Bay Highway as first step in plan to widen it to four lanes.

"We have been conducting surveys for quite a while," said a highways official today.

"The whole thing will be looked over."

He said the survey is part of a general review of the highway which is likely to lead to widening.

Victoria Alderman M. H. Mooney, who was seeking a provincial Social Credit nomination, said earlier plans were in the works for improving the route.

A section of the highway was widened when the road to the new Swartz Bay ferry terminal was built earlier this year.

The city fire department today lifted its ban on the burning of garbage and garden material as the result of Sunday's rain. But residents must still obtain permits for the burning of refuse in their backyards.

Winners of the monthly master point tournament of the Victoria Unit, American Contract Bridge League were:

First, Liliane Le Butt and Guy Dickson; second, Audrey and Albert Jorgenson; third, Laura Tingley and Velma Acres; fourth, Madge Meachem and Isabel Arlett.

City police reported today that thieves broke into a car owned by Darel Sellkirk, 3321 Kingsley Street, Sunday, and stole a woman's purse containing $30. The car was parked on Market Street near Douglas.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Can a person look through old copies of the Times or Colonist between 1934-38?—M.E.D.

A.—Anyone can look through back copies of this newspaper simply by coming into the "morgue" or library and utilizing the microfilm.

Q.—One of the requirements to become a Canadian citizen is to follow a course in citizenship followed by a written examination. Is this the necessary procedure throughout Canada or is it a local one?—R.E.

A.—This procedure is left up to the discretion of local judges. In Victoria the course is necessary.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times." The question and answer will be published daily. The Times does not undertake to solve commercial or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old manuscripts or antiques. These should be submitted to dealer.

Thieves broke into the Victoria Curling Rink Sunday and stole money from two cigarette machines, city police reported today. Nothing else was stolen.

They gained admission into the rink through sliding doors at the rear of the building. The doors were not properly secured.

Condition of Robert Jarrett, 17, 3840 Synod, who was injured in a traffic accident Saturday, was described as satisfactory by Royal Jubilee Hospital officials today.

Mr. Jarrett suffered a broken arm and leg injuries when he was in collision with a car driven by David Heyer, 1278 Bay Street, at Gosworth and Hillside.

Jerry Gosley's Summer Smile Show enters its final week at the Langham Court Theatre, off Rockland Avenue, tonight at 8:15 p.m. Victoria baritone John Dunbar will be guest soloist all this week.

Central Saanich police today captured one of two dogs which they believe killed more than 100 chickens Saturday on the poultry farm of Sam Jones, 1976 Keating Cross Road.

The dog has been sent to the SPCA shelter.

A second dog which took part in the killings and escaped has not yet been found. Mr. Jones, who depends on the birds for his livelihood, discovered the raid on his property on his return from the market. He drove the marauders off with a shotgun.

Entitled "That They May Live," the film is available to service clubs and other organizations through the B.C. Government Travel Bureau.

The presentation will deal specifically with saving victims of near drowning and electric shock.

Cowichan, Fortune, James Bay, Miramichi left today, return Wednesday, 2:30 p.m.

Ottawa left today, returns Thursday, 4 p.m.

Saguenay left today, returns Sept. 9.

Deputy Lord Mayor of Portsmouth, England, L. J. Evans, was scheduled to meet with Mayor Percy Scurrah at city hall today at 2:30 p.m.

It was Victoria's first wetting since July 26. Gonzales weather station recorded .11 inches of rainfall. Pat Bay Airport registered .14 inches.

Vancouver had .25 inches, Duncan .16, Nanaimo .35 and Comox .51 inches.

Victoria and Vancouver Island enjoyed gentle refreshing rain showers Sunday afternoon—and more fell in the Comox area early today.

It was Victoria's first wetting since July 26. Gonzales weather station recorded .11 inches of rainfall. Pat Bay Airport registered .14 inches.

Vancouver had .25 inches, Duncan .16, Nanaimo .35 and Comox .51 inches.

Small brush fires under a quarter of an acre were put out at Metchosin and in Esquimalt.

Three Times sponsored "Bernstein buses" taking Victoria children and parents to the Vancouver Festival Tuesday morning will be fully loaded, with 115 people in the party.

All available tickets have been sold.

Buses leave Vancouver Island Coach Lines Depot sharp at 8:10 a.m., travelling by the government ferry at Swartz Bay.

It was pointed out again today that while there are small restaurants in the Vancouver Forum area, some children may wish to take box lunches and avoid possible crowding.

More rain is sighted locally. Sunny weather returned today and some cloudiness is expected early Tuesday giving way to sunshine later.

The rain belt is now moving across the northern part of the province," weatherman William Mackie said.

"The rain we had was just part of a high level weather disturbance."

Temperatures dropped overnight but rose to 62 at noon today. They are expected to range from 50 to 67 degrees after five days' service.

Const. Frank Mitchell, of Esquimalt, told the one-day meeting at the Ingraham Hotel that provincial legislation laid down that findings of a conciliation board were binding.

The council, he said, had not implemented the award, which allowed three weeks' holiday after five years' service.

Const. Mitchell asked the meeting for direction after he said, "we have spent $500 on legal costs and got nowhere."

The meeting was opened this morning by Reeve George Chatterton, of Saanich. He urged that police be given municipal status. He suggested that the Union of B.C. Municipalities and University of British Columbia could implement a scheme to bring about the high standards required for professional police.

Today's meeting will be followed by a four-day convention of the Western Canada Police Association starting Tuesday.

Delegates from Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba are expected to attend. Main topic of interest is likely to be the suggested formation of a national police body.

Seven golden Sabre jets of the RCAF Golden Hawks precision flying squadron will put on another spectacular in Victoria skies Saturday at 2 p.m.

The squadrons will be in Naino Thursday and Friday and will give a show both days starting at 2 p.m. for the two-day Vancouver Island Exhibition there.

The gleaming planes will go through a 22-minute program of loops, rolls and cuban eights all in tight formation of four planes, climaxed by the famous bomb-bursts.

Unconscious Woman Dragged From Fire

Smoking In Bed Blamed

firemen Sunday night saved an elderly woman from asphyxiation in a smoke-filled five-room bungalow at 414 Government Street.

Rescued from her bedroom was Mrs. Mary Gillespie, 70, who was found lying unconscious on the floor overcome by smoke. She was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital.

A cigarette is believed to have started the fire in the woman's bed.

When firemen arrived at the house at 9:49 p.m., the bed was a smouldering mass.

Acting Lieutenant Carl Coates and fireman William Jackman from the James Bay fire hall found the woman on the floor near a window.

They said in another two minutes the room would have been in flames.

Fire damage was limited to a small portion of the floor, but smoke damage was extensive.

Firemen said the house is owned by Mrs. Olive Prescott who is out of town. Mrs. Gillespie had been left in charge of the bungalow.

26 Union Men CCF Candidates

Edited by NORMAN CRIBBENS

No fewer than 26 trade union members are now listed as CCF candidates in British Columbia's Sept. 12 election.

And 20 of them attended a joint parley of the CCF and the B.C. Federation of Labor in Vancouver Sunday described as a "strategic conference."

"It will be the first of many," an official said. Labor's support of the CCF used to be a suggestion to remember the CCF at the polls. Now the organization is being put to work."

The Sunday meeting saw Joe Morris, president of the International Woodworkers of America, in the chair.

For the first time in more than 15 years the name Communist Party of Canada will appear on election ballots this September.

They have 19 candidates in the field.

U.S. visitors are much intrigued by our methods of holding an election.

A San Francisco lady, when told today that the premier of B.C. goes to the lieutenant-governor and asks him to dissolve parliament in the name of the Queen, replied: "Oh, how cute!"

For the first time in more than 15 years the name Communist Party of Canada will appear on election ballots this September.

They have 19 candidates in the field.

More big names in the national CCF and Labor groups are joining the provincial campaign.

Bert Gargrave, former MLA, now an official of the United Steel Workers of America (CLC) will speak in support of his younger brother, Tony Gargrave (CCF-Mackenzie).

Former MLA Jim Bury, an official of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CLC) Toronto, will also take part.

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan will be guest speaker at a public rally organized by Victoria Social Creditors in St. Albans Hall, Ryerson and Belmont, tonight at 8.

Mr. Kiernan will play a similar role Tuesday when he will speak on Peace River and northern development at a meeting opening the campaign of Oak Bay Social Credit candidate, Reeve George Murdoch.

Meeting will be held in the Oak Bay municipal hall at 8 p.m.

"I'll be back tomorrow," said David Lockyer of 510 Sturdee, "Glad to do anything I can."

Mr. Mitchell will hold a campaign rally in East Sooke Hall Wednesday at 8:15 p.m.

4,100 More Troops Bound for Congo

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — The United States Air Force announced today it has started airlifting an additional 4,100 troops and 500 tons of equipment to strengthen the United Nations in the Congo.

16 Arrested in Plot Against Castro

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — The newspaper Revolucion today reported the arrest of 16 men on suspicion of plotting against Premier Fidel Castro's regime.

Crew Deserts, Pickets U.K. Ship

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Fourteen members of the crew of the 10,000-ton British freighter Sithonia walked off Monday and started picketing the ship's wharf. The seamen said they were protesting fines levied by the captain, bad food and unsanitary conditions. Longshoremen respected their picket line.

Workmen Trapped in Blast; 2 Killed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A violent explosion shook the Rheem Manufacturing Company here today, killing at least two persons.

Deputy Sheriff Danny Brock reported that "an undetermined number of workers were trapped in the debris of the structure."

Aerial Search For 4 Delayed

VANCOUVER (CP) — An air search for traces of four Vancouver mountain climbers believed crushed to death in a giant avalanche on towering Mount Waddington was called off temporarily today.

Members of the B.C. Mountain Rescue Group were to fly over the area but the trip had to be put off because the RCMP plane they were to use was in need of servicing.

The loss of the four climbers was the worst mountain-climbing accident in B.C. history and is believed to have happened more than two weeks ago as the party sought to scale Waddington, known as a "killer mountain."

Elfrida Pigou, 38, was one of two women who joined a pair of men for the assault on the 13,260-foot peak 175 miles northwest of here. Thousands of tons of ice dropped from an overhanging cliff and crushed them.

The accident probably happened July 30, but word of it was not received until Saturday.

Packing Supplies Below Ice Cliff

Frank Fickelsen of Seattle, head of the American party, said they saw the Vancouver climbers packing supplies on to a flat place on a glacier beneath an ice cliff July 30.

When the Americans climbed to the spot two days later, they found an ice slide some 150 yards wide and up to 10 feet deep. Buried in it were the remnants of the Canadians' camp site.

Their tracks led to the slide. The Americans, who had followed the prints through soft snow, made the sickening discovery that no tracks led out again.

"I feel sure they were all killed at once," Fickelsen said. "On Monday (Aug. 1) we came to a very steep glacial area and what appeared to be a campsite on a flat area covered with fresh debris," he said.

Mountain's Victim Had to Try Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Owen never expected people to understand what it was that made him go back to climb British Columbia's "killer mountain" a second time.

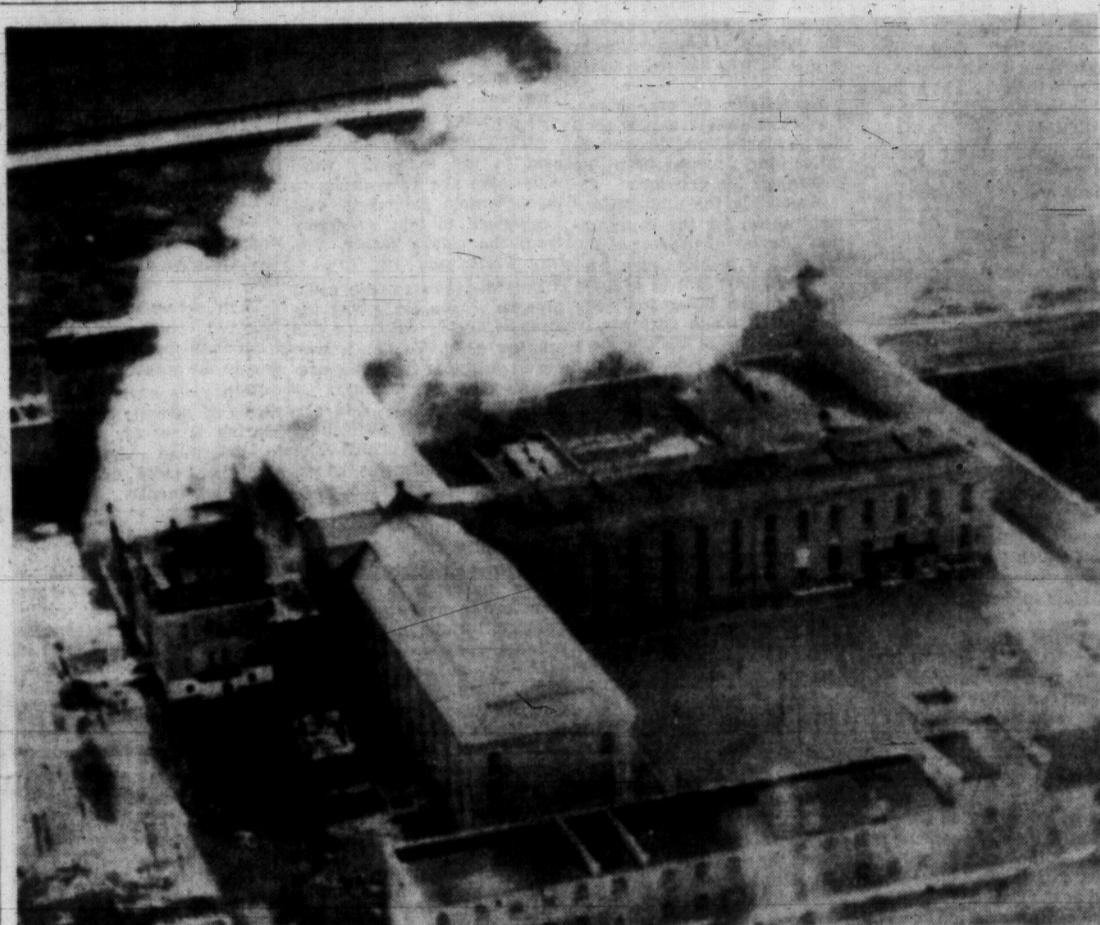

"You can't understand what it's like on top unless you've been there," he told friends.

That was shortly before he left his home here last month to scale Mount Waddington, 175 miles northwest of Vancouver. He died with his three companions July 30 when they were buried by an avalanche at the 8,200-foot level of the 13,260-foot peak.

"Standing on that peak is like someone telling you it was worth it," said the 24-year-old climber, member of a group which became the first Canadian party to make the climb two years ago.

PRISON BUILDINGS SET ABLAZE

Smoke rises from burning gymnasium at Stony Mountain Penitentiary near Winnipeg at height of prison riot Sunday. One prisoner was shot to death, three guards beaten before inmates were subdued.

One Killed, 7 Hurt, in Riot At Manitoba Penitentiary

WINNIPEG (CP) — A prisoner at Stony Mountain penitentiary was shot and killed Sunday afternoon as prison guards quelled an uprising by fire-setting prisoners.

Twelve convicts rushed the dome, nerve centre of the prison 14 miles north of downtown Winnipeg, and started fires in a cell block and other buildings.

The dead prisoner was identified as Albert Mercier, about 35. He was believed to be from Western Canada and serving a three-year term.

Four other prisoners were wounded by gunshots. They were taken to Winnipeg General Hospital where they were reported to be not in serious condition.

Three unarmed guards were beaten in the disturbance, but were released from hospital after emergency treatment.

Mercier was reported to have been killed by a bullet that ricocheted from a wall.

Warden Charles Des Rosiers said he did not know what caused the outbreak of violence.

'Some of Them Got Pretty High'

"They told us some of the fellows got plenty high on these goofballs," Johnson said in an interview. "They reported that when two guards went to quiet them down they started fighting with the guards."

The flames destroyed the small, brick sports equipment storage building and the large brick gymnasium and recreation building.

Smoke was visible in downtown Winnipeg and fire equipment was called from the city.

He planned a color photographic record of the latest ascent.

John's mother, Mrs. Francis Owen, was opposed to the climb.

"He did it once and I felt he should leave it alone," she said. "He loved mountains but he never thought of the risk — if he had come back he would be out again climbing some other mountain."

Pilot's Wife 'Scared'

(See also page 5)

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Barbara Powers said today she was "very upset" and "becoming more frightened" as the Russian spy trial of her husband, Francis Powers, before the trial begins Wednesday — his 31st birthday.

He faces charges carrying a maximum penalty of death as pilot of the American U-2 plane shot down 1,200 miles inside Russia.

The title went to Alberta with one player from each team still on the course. Alberta at that time had a 12-stroke lead and B.C. had no chance to catch up.

Wives and children of Winnipeg players, who were watching the game, were hurried out of the prison. The players finished the game and then were hustled out themselves.

The title went to Alberta with one player from each team still on the course. Alberta at that time had a 12-stroke lead and B.C. had no chance to catch up.

She told Western reporters she did not know whether she will be allowed to see her husband, Francis Powers, before the trial begins Wednesday — his 31st birthday.

MONTE ROBERTS

Hoo-Rays and Noo-Rays . . .

Hoo-Rays for the good citizens of Esquimalt, who actually voted "yes" for a progressive idea . . . thus reversing the trend in this, the most vote-noingest area of them all . . . long may they continue to accentuate the affirmative . . .

Noo-Rays for the proponents of the fall-out shelter school of thought currently being foisted on us once-proud Canadians . . . to the avail, I hope and trust.

When the time comes that we have to dig a hole, crawl into it, and pull it over us, the time has come to go quietly.

To the nearest booby-hatch.

Hoo-Rays for the razzle-dazzle, whoop-de-do, political campaign that makes voters aware something is going on. We voters don't get a chance to be noticed very often, so when we do, let's have some fun, eh?

Noo-Rays for the pessimists who say the tourist industry of this, the fairest city of them all, is on the wane because air travel is making access to far distant places so easy to one and all.

Air travel is a two-way street, and to several million people this, the fairest city of them all, is a far distant place.

All we need do is let them know they're welcome.

Hoo-Ray to the unidentified Able Bodied Seaman who defined duty so ably a week or so ago.

It seems a bunch of the boys were yakking it up in the Navy's Naden barracks.

And the subject up for beefing was the order to "volunteer" for duty at the Pacific National Exhibition, this involving much marching up and down and back and forth and shouldering of arms, etc.

So the unidentified AB, taking note of the fact Canadian soldiers are Africa-bound, said:

"I'd rather be an AB at the PNE than a Pongo in the Congo."

And a final Hoo-Ray to all the members of the Human Race who, while realizing they aren't going to win it, are still in there running their best.

WIFE

Continued from Page 1 posed, Mrs. Powers, 24, said her husband had written her six days ago saying, "I want to see you very much."

Mrs. Powers said she felt that the state department in the beginning of the case and "even now" could have done more.

UNDER ORDERS

Asked whether she thought it would be difficult for Powers to return to the U.S. if he pleaded guilty, she replied:

"No, I don't think so. After all, our government sent him. He was under orders."

"He has pleaded guilty to being only the pilot of the plane whose wreckage was found. I feel this is normal. How else could he plead?"

Delegates from Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba are expected to attend. Main topic of interest is likely to be the suggested formation of a national police body.

Today's meeting will be followed by a four-day convention of the Western Canada Police Association starting Tuesday.
